CENTER STREET PARKING WILL BE CONSIDERED

Map Drawn by State Highway Commission Engineers for Association Committee

TO DISCUSS PLAN

More Tourists on the Red Trail Now, According to Information to A. of C.

Re-arrangement of automobile parking in the downtown district of Bismarck is to be considered by the traffic committee of the Association of Commerce.

A parking plan was prepared by state highway commission engineers at the request of this committee, and this plan will be considered this week by the traffic committee. If approved, it will be recommended to the city commission for consideration and adoption.

Center parking wherever possible in downtown streets is urged in the engineers' plan prepared. It follows:

Main street-center parking, Second to Fourth streets, no parking between Fourth and Fifth (street car line); center parking Fifth to Sixth streets.

Broadway-center parking, Second to Sixth streets.

Thayer-center parking, Third to Fifth streets.

Third street-center parking, Main to Thayer.

Fourth street-no parking, Main to Thayer (street car line).

Fifth street-center parking, Main to Thayer street.

The question of the advantage of center parking over curb parking has been discussed in many cities, and many North Dakota cities are using center parking. The chief problem in Bismarck, according to engineers, is the matter of parking along the route of the state street car line.

Curb parking, as at present, leads to congestion and accident danger. It is declared. No parking would prevent automobile parking in a district where many park in order to transact business.

The Association of Commerce, Secretary A. F. Bradley said today, will co-operate in the organization of the North Dakota State Automobile association, and will open a branch bureau here. The office is now waiting for emblems and application blanks before beginning work. O. N. Dunham of Bismarck is a director in the state association.

Travel on the Red Trail by tourists has increased in the last month, according to Mr. Bradley. He said that tourists are being routed over the Red Trail by many agencies in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Fargo. Additional compliments for Bismarck's reconstructed tourist camp have been received in the last week.

Request is made of local people going to state conventions to notify the Association of Commerce so that the information may be turned over to the committee with relation to securing more conventions for the city.

The time for the dinner Monday evening at the Grand Pacific hotel at which Guy Lewis will explain the Neosho plan of co-operative merchandising, has been fixed at 6:30 p. m.

WATER PLANT LEVIED UPON

Sheriff Hedstrom Holds Property for Payment of Taxes

Sheriff Albin Hedstrom today completed work of levying on the property of the Bismarck Water Supply company to insure payment of taxes. There will be no change in the operation of the company until the city takes it over, the action being taken as an ordinary matter.

The levy is for $33,377.45. The 1923 taxes are estimated at $10,000, but since it is expected that transfer will be made soon all of this amount will not be owing the county from the company, the sheriff said.

ACCEPTS $13,000 SETTLEMENT

Minot, July 25.—Mrs. Ellen Bonniwell, formerly of this city but now residing in St. Paul, Minn., has accepted the settlement of $13,000 offered her by the Great Northern Railway company, for the death of her husband, Engineer C. C. Bonniwell, who with his fireman and brakeman, were killed as a result of a boiler explosion at Rosch, N. D., April 16, 1923, according to a communication received today from Mrs. Bonniwell.

Mrs. Bonniwell did not bring suit against the railroad company but made a satisfactory settlement out of court. According to the terms of the settlement, one-half of the amount goes to the widow and one-half to the five minor children of the family.

INVESTIGATES CITY CARRIER MAIL SERVICE

Postoffice Department Inspector Looks Over the Needs of Bismarck

Investigation of the mail carrier service in the city of Bismarck is being made by an inspector of the postoffice department, with a view of determining whether or not the city shall have additional carrier service.

Postmaster Murphy sometime ago made request, stating that the carrier service had not been readjusted to the growth of the city for many years. Since July 1 new appropriations have become available for the postoffice department which it is expected will make possible extension of service in many cities.

The local postoffice has received request from the postoffice department to urge upon the public the importance of placing return addresses on letters in the upper left-hand corner of the face of the envelope, on the same side as the address of the person to whom the letter is sent. Many letters have return addresses on the back. This not only makes unnecessary work for postal employees but results in many letters being sent to the "dead letter" office and consequent long delay in reaching the person for whom intended.

BURNSTADT IS BOUND OVER

Declares That Car and Feed Shortage Cause Difficulties

Bosman, Mont., July 25.—Chris P. Burnstad, of Burnstad, N. D., formally charged in the district court of Gallatin county July 13 with fraudulently obtaining the sum of $30,000 from the St. Paul Cattle Loan company of South St. Paul, Minn., in August, 1919, furnished cash bail in the sum of $4,000 and was at once released. He left on the afternoon train for his home in North Dakota.

The alleged crime for which Burnstad was brought back from North Dakota to answer hinged around the purchase of a quantity of cattle at Willow Creek for which the loan company says it furnished the sum of $45,000, and only received in return $15,000, the balance being still due from the defendant.

Burnstad, who claims at one time to have been the acknowledged "cattle king of North Dakota," says the shortage of cars in the summer and fall of 1919, the hard winter following with the scarcity of feed, and the slump in the price of stock the next spring ruined him financially as it did many other stockmen in the country. He insists that he is not criminally liable for the amount claimed by the St. Paul company and the refusal of the case after four years, he says, is "persecution."

The case will be called for trial in the fall term of court.

HARMONY IN LEAGUE ASKED

Minot, July 25.—An effort to gather together the factions of the Nonpartisan league which are warring upon each other was made at the close of the league conference here when harmony resolutions were adopted.

The resolutions declared in favor of a daily newspaper owned by the farmers.

They also recommended a special session of Congress to fix a price on wheat, and that the next state convention be held in Minot.

SEES LIQUOR LAW ENFORCED

North Dakota Makes Good Progress, Says Dry Director

Fargo, July 25.—North Dakota is making a splendid record in the enforcement of the federal and state prohibition laws, according to Sherman A. Cuneo, Washington, D. C., director of the information department of the federal prohibition division, who is in Fargo conferring with state prohibition officials.

"The dry state law has been an important factor in the enforcement of the law," said Mr. Cuneo today, "and there are very few states, with as good a record in enforcing the law as North Dakota."

"In other states the places formerly devoted to saloons have been taken over by legitimate mercantile companies and thousands of them in active operation on a lawful business testify to the fact that the critics were wrong when they said that prohibition would drive many people out of business."

"The effect of prohibition is not shown by the number of arrests or the amount of the fines collected. Enforcement and the benefits of enforcement have become apparent. They can be seen."

"Observation shows that there is scarcely a locality where a woman cannot walk alone at night without being molested by a drunkard or being forced to pass some dive where drunks are gathered."

MCCLELLAND IS REAPPOINTED

Would Bring Farmers to N. D.

Suggestion that farmers west of Havre, Montana, whose crops are reported to have been devastated by grasshoppers, be given the opportunity of coming into northwestern North Dakota harvest fields is advocated in a letter to Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor J. TAX MATTER IS POSTPONED UNTIL SEPT. 4

County Board Sets Over Matter as to $15,000,000 Escaped Valuation

BANKS IN OBJECTION

Attorney Says That Banks Voluntarily Paid Tax and County Accepted It

The board of county commissioners, with Commissioners Swanson, Bachman and Sobberg present, today postponed hearing in the matter of taxes claimed to have been escaped by all of the banks in Burleigh county and a number of corporations until September 4, to give attorneys of the companies and banks an opportunity to go thoroughly into the matter.

Representatives of the banks and companies affected said they appeared at the hearing to find out on what grounds they were being asked to pay more taxes than they believed they had paid all that was due the county and they desired to have the information as to the alleged escaping of taxes in order to be able to present the matter promptly. A total of about $15,000,000 property had escaped taxation, according to the notices sent out by County Auditor F. J. Johnson on the report of F. E. Hellstrom.

Mr. Hellstrom was engaged by the board to act in the matter of escaped taxes and is listed as a clerk in the auditor's office. Attorney Zuger, appearing for one of the concerns, said:

"The hearing was scheduled for 10 a. m., but was delayed when Attorney H. H. Hare, representing the banks, asked for a record and County Auditor Johnson sought a stenographer to take the proceedings."

The first matter taken up was the banks. All of the banks in the county, 19 in all, were named as having escaped taxes. Mr. Hellstrom explained the method on which it is alleged taxes were escaped.

He referred to the compromise on bank taxes in all counties of the state after the supreme court had held that the legislature had omitted provisions in the law providing a tax on bank stock for the years 1920, 1921 and 1922. Mr. Hellstrom said the compromise, which was on a basis of $50 per cent valuation, was without authority in law. Senate bill No. 375, passed by the last legislature, proposed to validate the compromise, he said, and also to ratify the compromise settlements made. The section ratifying the compromise had been rendered null and void by the filing of petitions referring that section of senate bill No. 375 to the people, he said.

He said the law as it remained removed the ambiguity of which the court complained and said the intention was to tax banks. He said the notice to the banks was on the basis of the levy originally made by the tax commissioner.

Benton Baker, attorney for the Bismarck banks, said that concerning there was a measure to permit escaped property to be taxed, there also is a law authorizing the county commissioners to abate and compromise taxes with the approval of the tax commissioner.

After decisions had been rendered by the court holding that the law taxing bank stocks was invalid, the law of 1919 specifically exempted stocks and bonds of all corporations and with respect to national bank stock held the tax was out of line with other taxes and therefore in violation of law, the banks voluntarily proposed to pay taxes. The Burleigh county board of commissioners last June 8 passed a resolution saying that the law taxing bank stocks was invalid and that the county would accept the measure, with the approval of the tax commissioner, being paid by the Bismarck bank.

The fact that the legislature passed a law validating taxes and attempting to be retroactive and the fact that the ratification section was held up by petitions had no effect upon the situation, Mr. Baker said.

Mr. Baker then filed a motion to dismiss proceedings.

During the last five years, farmers' organizations in the Union of South Africa have destroyed 66,164 baboons, 2113 eagles, 224,642 jackals, 15,380 lynxes and 64,963 wild cats.

SIX MORE IN PHILIPPINES QUIT PLACES

Say They Want to Relieve General Wood of Further Embarrassment

FRIENDS SEE PLOT

Say Filipino Officials Out-all of Wood's Appointees to Make Situation Worse

Manila, P. I., July 25.—The political situation here marked recently by the resignation of all the principal native officials of the Philippine government and by a legislative request that Governor General Leonard Wood be recalled was in a more muddled state today following the resignation last night of six appointive representatives of the legislature.

The last group to quit as a result of differences between General Wood and the Filipino officials explained they wished to give the governor the opportunity to fill the positions with legislators who would not embarrass him.

Friends of Wood contend that the government enemies, notably Emmanuel Quezon, head of the new collectivist party, have been ousting all of Wood's appointees in an effort to make it appear that people approved the resignation of the entire membership of the cabinet on July 17.

In the resolution adopted Monday night it was asked that unless immediate independence was granted the Philippine island that a native Governor-general be appointed to replace Wood.

NINE CONVICTS STILL FREE

Escaped from Illinois Penitentiary for Criminal Insane

Chester, Ill., July 25.—Several of the 41 inmates who escaped from the criminal insane hospital are believed by officials to have made good in their dash for freedom. Nine of the prisoners are still at large, and are being hunted by posters.

Despite fears expressed by the population of the town no depredation has been reported committed by the escaped patients many of whom were sent to the hospital being charged with murder.

Nine of the prisoners have submitted without struggle. Eighty per cent of the inmates are said to be irrational while the others are normal.

FEDERAL TAX DUE JULY 31

Collector of Internal Revenue Explains Penalties

To avoid penalty, returns and payment must be made on or before July 31, 1923, of the miscellaneous personal taxes, the special tobacco manufacturers' tax and the special tax on the use of boats, provided for by the revenue act of 1921, according to statement of Gander Olson, collector of internal revenue for North Dakota.

Capital stock tax returns also must be made on or before July 31, payment being required within 10 days after notice and demand by the collector.

The revenue act provides that "every domestic corporation shall pay annually a special excise tax with respect to carrying on or doing business, equivalent to $1 for each $1,000 of so much of the fair average value of its capital stock for the preceding year ending June 30 as is in excess of $5,000. In estimating the value of capital stock the surplus and undivided profits shall be included. Every foreign corporation shall pay annually a special excise tax with respect to carrying on or doing business in the United States, equivalent to $1 for each $1,000 of the average amount of capital employed in the transaction of its business in the United States during the preceding year ending June 30."

Every domestic corporation must make a return on Form 707 even though the law may indicate that it is exempt from tax. The question of exemption is one for determination by the commissioner of internal revenue.

Steel Magnates Discuss 12-Hour Day

New York, July 25.—Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation today announced that presidents of the corporations manufacturing steel, would meet tomorrow to discuss elimination of the 12-hour day for which the industry has long been criticized.

STATE EXAMINER DECLARED DOUBLE OF PRESIDENT BY DENVER PEOPLE

North Dakota harbors President Harding's double, in the person of Gilbert Semington, state examiner.

His friends around the capitol never knew it, but it remained for people of Denver to discover in him a striking resemblance to President Harding, who visited the Colorado City recently.

Mr. Semington, in Denver to attend the convention of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks, was walking down a Denver street when a stranger greeted him effusively and deferentially. Mr. Semington, taken aback, inquired the reason, and the stranger told him he looked just like President Harding. Others began to comment on it.

"Denver sees in Gilbert Semington, state bank examiner of North Dakota, a likeness to President Harding," says the Denver Times, "and the examiner, feeling that he will be delayed in returning his berth for the trip home, has already sent a special messenger to the Union station, so that he himself will not have to battle his way through the crowds of the curious that surround him."

The Denver paper continued: "General Pershing has his double; other national officials have been said to have doubles, and now there is a double for the president. Mr. Semington talks in a low voice and there is a kindly gleam in his eye. He is slightly taller than President Harding, and—except, perhaps, not so—yes, you know what I mean, just around the waist line."

"At any rate, Mr. Semington doesn't resent it, in fact rather likes it, but he hopes to get away from Denver without causing any public demonstrations."

No word has come from Mr. Semington of the Denver discovery, but an official of a neighboring state sent the newspaper clipping here. Bank friends and the capital forces are planning a greeting for President Harding's double when he returns, since the President disappointed the Northwest by choosing another route to the Pacific.

CITY'S ACTION ON BONDS IS HELD VALID

District Judge Janssonius Renders Decision in Court at Washburn

Judge Fred Janssonius of district court, in a decision rendered in Washburn late last evening, held that the bond issue procedure of the city commission of Bismarck leading up to the issuance of $225,000 of bonds for the purchase or construction of a water works was valid. The entire matter was laid before Judge Janssonius in a friendly petition filed by local citizens attacking the proceedings as invalid, particularly alleging that the method in which the question was submitted to voters was invalid.

Judge Janssonius ruled that the city commission had acted in accordance with the law in the procedure. The case was appealed to the supreme court immediately, the papers being filed in the court this morning, and a hearing at an early date was asked of the high court.

PEACE TREATY IS VICTORY FOR TURKEY

British Conservatives Do Not Take Gloomy View of Pact

London, July 25.—The outstanding note of comment in all today's newspapers on the signing of the Near East Peace treaty yesterday at Lausanne is admission of Turkey's diplomatic victory over the Allies.

The new treaty, nevertheless, is regarded by some commentators, as a good one. The Times declares the document is a model of generosity and justice while the Daily Telegraph, which takes a gloomy view, takes the position that if the treaty of Cerver has been ratified the settlement created thereby would very soon have been shattered.

Friendship with Turkey is a more or less of a traditional policy of the British conservative party and in that quarter there was no disposition to complain of the treaty. Turkey had gained. Elsewhere there were some misgivings over the future, particularly as it affects Armenia and some other Christians under the Turkish domination.

GRAIN RATES CUT IS ASKED

Growers to Seek Reduction to The Terminal Markets

Grand Forks, N. D., July 25.—A reduction of inter-state grain rates from North Dakota to terminal grain markets will be asked by the North Dakota Wheat Growers' association, through Finley D. Cameron, traffic manager, it was announced.

This demand, it is expected, will closely follow the hearing to be held Friday before the North Dakota railroad commission in intra-state freight rates on grain. Mr. Cameron will attend Friday's hearing. It is announced by W. Goodman, traffic commissioner of the Commercial club, will be one of the principal witnesses at the coming hearing in the interests of the club and the state mill and elevator.

Officials of the Wheat Growers feel that a reduction of intra-state rates, which is believed to be probable as a result of the coming hearing, will be the best step toward securing a reduction of inter-state rates to terminal markets. It is said that the findings of the commission at the coming hearing will be used as a basis for determining the fairness of the inter-state rates as a future hearing.

BANDITS FIGHT IN TORONTO

Toronto, July 25.—The provincial police scouring Ontario for six bandits who yesterday fought a pistol battle with a dozen bank messengers in Toronto's financial district and escaped with $130,000, today received word that the address of a touring car believed to be that in which the robbers fled were still smoldering on the Garrison road between Buffalo and Port Erie, Ontario.

"This court does not have to confess a degree of embarrassment in the determination of the action presented upon these arguments," said the decision. "On the one hand, we are clear that the constitution vests a superintending control generally over the actions of the district courts. On the other hand, we are confronted with the consideration that the legislature which must be accorded a large measure of responsibility and an extensive degree of power in the regulation of criminal law as well as civil procedure has prescribed certain rules with a view no doubt, to the accomplishment of the ends of criminal justice."

One of the questions asked by Judge McKenna and upon which he set aside the indictments was Can all the testimony of a large number of witnesses be taken in a case before a grand jury, relating to a large number of crimes, against a large number of different persons, without

COURT WON'T INTERFERE IN INDICTMENTS

Raises Action Upon Statutory Grounds to be Followed After Court Rule

TOWNLEY, LEMKE FREE

Judge McKenna Had Quashed Indictments of Grand Jury—Decision Stands

NUB OF DECISION. The nub of the court's decision in the bank cases, according to one lawyer who read opinion, was that supreme court held that the indictments of the grand jury were valid, except F. W. Cathro and it did not decide in his case, but that District Judge McKenna in dismissing the defendants and not ordering them held for another grand jury, acted under statutes which prescribe procedure and are exclusive, and that the supreme court does not have the power to change the action taken.

Attorney General Shafer declined to comment on the decision or say what further action might be taken, until he has conferred with George A. Bangs, special assistant attorney general and States Attorney H. F. Horner of Cass county.

The statute of limitations has run in some cases, barring further prosecution, and as the charges, but Attorney General Shafer he could not say in which cases until after a close study of involved charges made in indictments.

The supreme court, in a decision handed down today, denied the application of the statute for supervisory writ in the case in which the state sought to have reinstated indictments returned by a Cass county grand jury in the Scandinavian-American bank "breaching" cases and which were quashed by District Judge George W. McKenna.

The court's decision was based upon the statutory procedure governing motions to dismiss indictments, holding that "when indictments are erroneously dismissed upon motion, the further proceedings must be as contemplated in the statute."

The decision disposes of the original indictments returned by the Cass county grand jury on May 16 and 17, 1922, the jury having returned 35 indictments against 12 persons.

Those indicted on various charges which included embezzlement, making false reports to the bank examiner, receiving deposits in invalid bank currency, making false statements and entries in the ledger were: A. C. Townley, William Lemke, F. W. Cathro, Louis P. McManey, H. C. Eggen, H. J. Ragen, Lars Christensen, P. R. Sherman, O. S. Loftness, H. A. Padlock, J. J. Hastings, H. D. Ellis.

The decision of the court held with the state on the question of the intentions advanced in the case before it. The defense had asserted that the supreme court lacked jurisdiction to exercise its supervisory power over lower courts because the district court acted within its jurisdiction. The high court, in its opinion, says that the power of the supreme court was not affected in any way by this fact.

The defense argued that the supreme court could not exercise power because the indictments had been dismissed, defendants discharged and bail exonerated and the power of supervisory control could not be exercised for the reason that the case was nothing before the lower court to be acted upon. The supreme court held the argument unsound, and that the supreme court power of supervisory control attaches where the error of the trial court begins.

Question Considered. "The question for our serious concern upon this application is, in view of the action of the state government in criminal procedure, is it a case presented where this court should exercise its superintending control?" the decision said.

The state has statutes, originated some fifty years ago, which are clear and explicit in their statement of the power to follow the ruling of the district court, the decision said. The state argued that the statutes themselves constituted a situation justifying the exercise of supervisory control.

"This court does not have to confess a degree of embarrassment in the determination of the action presented upon these arguments," said the decision. "On the one hand, we are clear that the constitution vests a superintending control generally over the actions of the district courts. On the other hand, we are confronted with the consideration that the legislature which must be accorded a large measure of responsibility and an extensive degree of power in the regulation of criminal law as well as civil procedure has prescribed certain rules with a view no doubt, to the accomplishment of the ends of criminal justice."

One of the questions asked by Judge McKenna and upon which he set aside the indictments was Can all the testimony of a large number of witnesses be taken in a case before a grand jury, relating to a large number of crimes, against a large number of different persons, without

Re-arrangement of automobile parking in the downtown district of Bismarck is to be considered by the traffic committee of the Association of Commerce.

A parking plan was prepared by state highway commission engineers at the request of this committee, and this plan will be considered this week by the traffic committee. If approved, it will be recommended to the city commission for consideration and adoption.

Center parking wherever possible in downtown streets is urged in the engineers' plan prepared. It follows: Main street—center parking, Second to Fourth streets; no parking between Fourth and Fifth (street car line); center parking Fifth to Sixth streets.

Broadway—Center parking, Second to Sixth streets.

Thayer—Center parking, Third to Fifth streets.

Third street—Center parking, Main to Thayer.

Fourth street—No parking, Main to Thayer (street car line).

Fifth street—Center parking, Main to Thayer street.

The question of the advantage of center parking over curb parking has been discussed in many cities, and many North Dakota cities are using center parking. The chief problem in Bismarck, according to engineers, is the matter of parking along the route of the state street car line. Center parking is, of course, impossible. Additional complaints for Bismarck's reconstructed tourist camp have been received in the last week.

Request is made of local people going to state conventions to notify the Association of Commerce so that the information may be turned over to the convention committee, to take action with relation to securing more conventions for the city.

Representatives of the banks and companies affected said they appeared at the hearing to find out on what grounds they were being asked to pay more taxes, that they believed they had paid all that was due the county, and they desired to have the information as to the alleged escaping of taxes in order to be able to present the matter properly. A total of about $15,000,000 property had escaped taxation, according to the notices sent out by County Auditor F. J. Johnson on the report of F. O. Hellstrom.

Mr. Hellstrom was engaged by the board to act in the matter of escaping taxes and as a clerk in the auditor's office. Attorney Zuger, appearing for one of the concerns, said:

The hearing was scheduled for 10 a. m., but was delayed when Attorney O'Hare for the Standard Oil Company as for a second, and County Auditor Johnson sought a stenographer to take the proceedings.

The first matter taken up was the banks. All of the banks in the county, 19 in all, were named as having escaped taxes. Mr. Hellstrom explained the method on which it is alleged taxes were escaped.

He referred to the compromise on bank taxes in all counties of the state after the supreme court had held that the legislature had omitted provisions in the law providing a tax on bank stock for the years 1920, 1921 and 1922. Mr. Hellstrom said the compromise, which was on a basis of a 50 percent valuation, was without authority in law. Senate bill No. 375, passed by the last legislature, proposed to validate the compromise, he said, and also to ratify the compromise settlements made. The section ratifying the compromise had been rendered null and void by the filing of petitions referring that section of senate bill No. 375 to the people, he said.

He said the law as it remained removed the ambiguity of which the court complained and said the intention was to tax banks. He said the notice to the banks was on the basis of the levy originally made by the tax commissioner.

Benton Baker, attorney for the Bismarck bank, said that concerning there was a measure to permit escaped property to be taxed, there also is a law authorizing the county commissioners to abate and compromise taxes with the approval of the tax commissioner. After decisions had been rendered by the court holding that the law taxing bank stock was inoperative that the law of 1919 specifically exempted stocks and bonds of all corporations and with respect to national bank stock held the tax was out of line with other taxes and therefore in violation of law.

The fact that the legislature passed a law validating taxes and attempting to be retroactive and the fact that the ratification section was held up by petitions had no effect upon the situation, Mr. Baker said.

Mr. Baker then filed a motion to dismiss proceedings.

SIX MORE IN PHILIPPINES QUIT PLACES

Say They Want to Relieve General Wood of Further Embarrassment

FRIENDS SEE PLOT

Say Filipino Officials Oust all of Wood's Appointees to Make Situation Worse

Manila, P. I., July 25.—The political situation here marked recently by the resignation of all the principal native officials of the Philippine government and by a legislative request that Governor-General Leonard Wood be recalled, today following the resignation last night of six appointive representatives of the legislature.

The last group to quit as a result of differences between General Wood and the Filipino officials explained they wished to give the governor the opportunity to fill the positions with legislators who would not embarrass him.

Friends of Wood contend that the government enemies, notably Emilio Aguinaldo, head of the new collectivist party, have been ousting all of Wood's appointives in an effort to make it appear that the people approved the resignation of the entire membership of the cabinet on July 17.

In the resolution adopted Monday night, it was called for immediate independence was granted the Philippine Islands that a native Governor-general be appointed to replace Wood.

NINE CONVICTS STILL FREE

Escaped from Illinois Penitentiary for Criminal Insane

Chester, Ill., July 25.—Several of the 41 inmates who escaped from the criminal insane hospital here believed by officials to have made good in their dash for freedom. Nine of the prisoners are still at large, and are being hunted by posers.

Despite fears expressed by the population of the town no depredations have been reported committed by the escaped patients many of whom were sent to the hospital being charged with murder.

Most of those recaptured have submitted without struggle.

Eighty per cent of the inmates are said to be irrational while the others are normal.

FEDERAL TAX DUE JULY 31

Collector of Internal Revenue Explains Penalties

To avoid penalty, returns and payment must be made on or before July 31, 1923, of the miscellaneous occupational taxes, the special tax on the use of boats, provided for by the revenue act of 1921, according to statement of Gunder Olson, collector of internal revenue for North Dakota.

Capitol stock tax returns also must be made on or before July 31, payment being required within 10 days after notice and demand by the collector.

The revenue act provides that "every domestic corporation shall pay annually a special excise tax with respect to carrying on or doing business, equivalent to $1 for each $1,000 of so much of the fair average value of its capital stock for the preceding year ending June 30 as is in excess of $5,000. In estimating the value of capital stock the surplus and undivided profits shall be included. Every foreign corporation shall pay annually a special excise tax with respect to carrying on or doing business in the United States, equivalent to $1 for each $1,000 of the average amount of capital employed in the transaction of its business in the United States during the preceding year ending June 30."

Every domestic corporation must make a return on Form 707 even though the law may indicate that it is exempt from tax. The question of exemption is one for determination by the commissioner of internal revenue.

STATE EXAMINER DECLARED DOUBLE OF PRESIDENT BY DENVER PEOPLE

North Dakota harbors President Harding's double, in the person of Gilbert Semingson, state examiner.

His friends around the capital never knew it, but it remained for people of Denver to discover in him a striking resemblance to President Harding, who visited the Colorado City recently.

Mr. Semingson, in Denver to attend the convention of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks, was walking down a Denver street when a stranger greeted him effusively and deferentially. Mr. Semingson, taken aback, inquired the reason, and the stranger told him he looked just like President Harding. Others began to comment on it.

"Denver sees in Gilbert Semingson, state bank examiner of North Dakota, a likeness of President Harding," says the Denver Times, "and the examiner, feeling that he will be delayed in reserving his berth for the trip home, has already sent a special messenger to the Union station, so that he himself will not have to battle his way through the crowds of the curious that surround him."

The Denver paper continued: "General Pershing has his double; other national officials have been said to have doubles, and now there is a double for the president. Mr. Semingson talks in a low voice and there is a kindly gleam in his eye. He is slightly taller than President Harding, and—comprehend, beg pardon, not so—yes, you know what is meant, just around the waist line."

"At any rate, Mr. Semingson doesn't resent it, in fact rather likes it, but he hopes to get away from Denver without causing any public demonstrations."

No word has come from Mr. Semingson of the Denver discovery, but an official of a neighboring state sent the newspaper clipping here. Banker friends and the capital force are planning a greeting for President Harding's double when he returns, since the President disappointed the Northwest by choosing another route to the Pacific.

CITY'S ACTION ON BONDS IS HELD VALID

District Judge Jansonius Renders Decision in Court at Washburn

Judge Fred Jansonius of district court, in a decision rendered in Washburn late last evening, held that the bond issue procedure of the city commission of Bismarck leading up to the issuance of $200,000 of bonds for the purchase or construction of a water works was valid. The entire matter was laid before Judge Jansonius in a friendly petition filed by local citizens attacking the proceedings as invalid, particularly alleging that the method in which the question was submitted to voters was invalid.

Judge Jansonius ruled that the city commission had acted in accordance with law in the procedure.

The case was appealed to the supreme court immediately, the papers being filed in the court this morning, and a hearing at an early date was asked of the high court.

COURT WON'T INTERFERE IN INDICTMENTS

Hases Action Upon Statutory Grounds to be Followed After Court Rule

TOWNLEY, LEMKE FREE

Judge McKenna Had Quashed Indictments of Grand Jury—Decision Stands

NUB OF DECISION. The nub of the court's decision in the bank cases, according to one lawyer who read opinion, was that supreme court held that the indictments of the grand jury were valid as except F. W. Cathro and it did not decide in his case, but that District Judge McKenna in dismissing the defendants and not ordering them held for another grand jury, acted under statutes which prescribe procedure and are exclusive, and that the supreme court does not have the power to change the action taken.

Attorney General Shaffer declined to comment on the decision or say what further action might be taken, until he has conferred with Chief Justice A. Bangs, special assistant attorney general and States Attorney H. F. Horner of Cass county.

The statute of limitations has run in some cases, barring further prosecution under the charges, but Attorney General Shaffer said he could say in which cases until after close study of involved charges made in indictments.

The supreme court, in a decision handed down today, denied the application of the state for a supervisory writ in the case in which the state sought to have reinstated indictments returned by a Cass county grand jury in the Scandinavian-American bank "wrecking" cases and which were quashed by District Judge George W. McKenna.

The court's decision was based upon the statutory procedure governing motions to dismiss indictments, holding that "when indictments are erroneously dismissed upon motion, the further proceedings must be as contemplated in the statute."

The decision disposes of the original indictments returned by the Cass county grand jury on May 16 and 17, 1922, the jury having returned 35 indictments against 12 persons. Those indicted:

The 12 were indicted on various charges which included embezzlement, making false reports to the bank examiner, receiving deposits in insolvent bank, perjury, making false statements and entry. The indicted were: A. C. Townley, William Lemke, F. W. Cathro, Louis P. McAnaney, H. G. Eggen, H. J. Hagen, Lars Christianson, P. R. Sherman, O. E. Lofthus, H. A. Padock, J. J. Hastings, H. D. Ellis.

The decision of the court held that the state could not exercise power because the indictments had been dismissed within its jurisdiction. The court held, in the opinion, says that the power of the supervisory control attaches when the error of the trial court begins.

"The question for our serious concern upon this application is, in view of the statutes of this state governing criminal procedure, is a case presented to this court should exercise its supervisory control?" the decision said.

The state has statutes, originated some fifty years ago, which are clear and explicit in their statement of consequences to follow the ruling of the district court, the decision said. The state argued that the statutes themselves constituted a situation justifying the exercise of supervisory control.

"This court does not hesitate to confess a degree of embarrassment in the determination of the questions presented upon these arguments," said the decision. "On the one hand, we are clear that the constitution vests a supervisory control generally over the actions of the district courts. On the other hand, we are confronted with the consideration that the legislature, which must be conceded a large measure of responsibility and an extensive range of power in the regulation of criminal as well as civil procedure, has prescribed certain rules with a view, no doubt, to the accomplishment of the ends of criminal justice."

One of the questions asked by Judge McKenna and upon which he set aside the indictments was: Can all the testimony of a large number of witnesses be taken on mass, before a grand jury, relating to a large number of crimes, against a large number of different persons, without (Continued on Page 3)

GRAIN RATES CUT IS ASKED

Growers to Seek Reduction to The Terminal Markets

Grand Forks, N. D., July 25.—A reduction of inter-state grain rates from North Dakota to terminal grain markets will be asked by the North Dakota Wheat Growers' association, through Finley D. Cameron, traffic manager, it was announced.

This demand, it is expected, will closely follow the hearing to be held Friday before the North Dakota railroad commission in intra-state freight rates on grain. Mr. Cameron will attend Friday's hearing, it is announced. J. W. Goodman, traffic commissioner of the Commercial club, will be one of the principal witnesses at the coming hearing in the interests of the club and the state mill and elevator.

Officials of the Wheat Growers feel that a reduction of intra-state rates, which is believed to be probable as a result of the coming hearing, will be a decided step toward securing reduced inter-state rates to eastern terminals. It is said that the findings of the commission at the coming hearing will be used as a basis for determining the fairness of the inter-state rates as a future hearing.

BANDITS FIGHT IN TORONTO

Toronto, July 25.—The provincial police securing Ontario for six bandits who yesterday fought a pistol battle with a dozen bank messengers in Toronto's financial district and escaped with $130,000 after wounding three employees, today received word that the ashes of a touring car believed to be that in which the robbers fled were still smoldering on the Garrison road between Buffalo and Port Erie, Ontario.

ASHLEY BANK CASE REVERSED

The supreme court has reversed the case of the First National Bank of Ashley against L. Strauss, appealed by the former. A new trial was ordered in Judge McKenna's court because the court erred in directing a verdict in contravention of provisions of statute.

NO PROFIT IN FIRST YEAR AT STATE'S MILL

Running Strong and Employing 140 Men, According to Manager C. S. Austin

SELL IN NORTHWEST

Grand Forks, July 24.—Encouraging progress is being made toward successful and profitable operation by the North Dakota State mill at Grand Forks, which is now working day and night with an output of 2,500 barrels of flour a day, according to C. E. Austin, general manager. A crew of 140 including 30 persons in the office force, and 84 salesmen are now employed by the mill.

Three units have been placed in operation since the mill opened on October 30, 1922, says Mr. Austin. Two of the units which are handling spring wheat have been operating full time since April 1 with an output of a little more than 1000 barrels a day each. The durum unit with an output of 1000 barrels is turning out flour which is used as semolina by manufacturers of macaroni and other durum products.

Experienced Manager
"A big project like the state mill is bound to operate at a loss for a time," Mr. Austin points out, "and the people of North Dakota must wait with a little patience until the mill can be placed on a paying basis. Only luck can make a tremendous undertaking like the state owned mill pay the first year."

Mr. Austin is an experienced miller who received his early training in Minnesota and at the University of Minnesota. In 1907 he went to Moosejaw, Canada, to operate a branch mill, and from there to Medicine Hat with the Maple Leaf Milling company.

"We are in the center of the best wheat area in the United States, and our aim is to put out the best kind of flour," Mr. Austin says. "We cannot get poor stuff to mix with the good wheat in our state. Our problem is to sell our product in markets that pay a better price than does the export market, or the market which will always buy wheat at a price like New York, Philadelphia, and Chicago."

Selling Thru Regular Trade

"Our present market and the one which we are cultivating is the market in North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, Iowa, and Wisconsin where the housewife uses a hard spring wheat flour. In the east and south the soft wheats of Kansas or home grown grain flour is used almost entirely. Later we propose to sell the baker trade in Illinois, New York, Ohio, and other states where bakers need a better wheat flour such as we can furnish to mix with their flour in order to make it a good baking flour."

"North Dakota wheat has taken very well in all parts of the country and also in England and Scotland. Four grades of the spring wheat product are now on the market. The best grade, "Dakota Maid," is the one which is our main product, and which is being marketed to consumers through the dealer trade. The next grade, Dakota, is a baker's flour, and the third and fourth grades, Dakota Warrior and Dakota Wagman, are flour for blending which are being sold to the export trade."

Only One In Country

The mill, the only state owned one in the country of the same character is being conducted as a regular commercial institution, according to the officials. It is being run on an absolutely business basis, with the object of making a profit like any other mill. The wheat is purchased from farmers, independent and line elevators.

LEGION PALACE OF CALIFORNIA TO BE OPENED

San Francisco, July 24.—The California Palace of the Legion of Honor, now being constructed at a cost of $1,000,000 on the crest of Lincoln Park overlooking the Golden Gate, will be formally dedicated in memory of the 3,369 California boys who made the supreme sacrifice on the battlefields of France in the World War during the national convention of the American Legion here October 15-19, according to an announcement by Ralph Spreckels, honor of the memorial.

Exhibition of the works of art donated by the French, Roumanian, Serbian and Polish governments, and various individuals, which will form a part of the permanent collection to be housed in the memorial building here are being exhibited in the historic Legion of Honor building on the banks of the Seine, Paris June 5-July 5, before their removal to San Francisco. The California Palace of the Legion of Honor is a duplicate of the Paris building, and official permission for its duplication was given by the French government. Henri Guillaume, French government architect at the Panama Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915, is the architect.

The memorial donated under the name of President Harding, by Mrs. William of France, and other leading French and American citizens, is being given to the citizens of California together with all the art treasures, by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Eastman.

BIG PROFITS IN BOOZE GO TO SYNDICATE

Sell to Prices Permitting the Runners Comparatively Small Profits

Detroit, July 24.—Certain powerful interests control the available supply of beer and liquor on the Canadian side, and the big money is made there, according to the rum runners who operate the tiny boats which chug across the river here with their cargoes of illicit beverages.

According to these operators, this "syndicate" or "system" as it is termed, sell at prices which permit the runners and American bootleggers a comparatively small margin of profit.

Thus, say these runners, the huge profits in the rum running business across the Detroit river are a thing of the past. Large profits, they maintain, still are being taken in the liquor smuggling traffic, but the business has progressed and been systematized until only those who control the traffic and crack the whip over the rum running fleets reap the golden harvest.

The free and easy way of the days shortly after prohibition became effective, say the runners, is gone. System has come in, and now it is impossible for a free lance runner to obtain supplies on the Canadian side unless he buys them from what amounts, virtually, to a closed syndicate, according to these operatives.

The runners cite instances. They say that Canadian beer, when bought from the Canadian operators, often costs close to $5 a case, although its actual brewery price is much lower. The runner gets in cents a case for transporting it across the river and it is laid down in River Rouge, Wyandotte or Ecorse or some other place for $5.50. If it is delivered to the retailer he can truck it to his place of business and sell it for 50 cents a bottle and make a comfortable profit. But, the runners say, it often goes through the hands of an American middleman and reaches the retailer at a cost of about 33 cents a bottle. He has to keep up his overhead expense and run his risk and still sell it at 50 cents a bottle.

The same situation obtains in whiskey smuggling, these runners say. They declare it is virtually impossible to get whiskey to smuggle on their own account. When they run it across for the controlling interests they receive $2.75 a case.

Despite these protests, however, it appears probable that some of them, by hard work, make a comfortable living. One youth claimed he averages 40 cases of beer a trip and makes from three to four times as much as a motor boat. At this rate he would make $20 a trip and from $50 to $80 a day. Other craft are said to carry larger cargoes.

UNIVERSITY MAY BECOME RICH BY OIL

Austin, Tex., July 24.—Students and officials of the University of Texas who for several years have dreamed of extensive improvements for the school may have their dream fulfilled by the magic of oil. A $600,000 improvement program has been outlined for some time. The board of regents had taken steps to obtain loans for the improvements, but it was not until a few weeks ago that hope developed for other sources of revenue.

It is admitted by university officials that should a producing oil field be opened on the school's lands in West Texas it probably would be one of the richest schools in the nation. Reports of a gusher in Reagan county were made recently, but it remains for the field to be proven.

The state university holds title to 72 sections of land in the Reagan county district. The income from the land under state law is used for permanent improvements. The state legislature probably would make provision for other uses in case a large income is derived.

POINCARÉ GETS CABINET O. K. ON HIS REPLY

Believed to Oppose British Note on Reparations in Important Matters

Paris, July 24.—The French cabinet today unanimously approved Premier Poincaré's attitude toward the British project for a reply to Germany's reparation note which the premier set forth to his colleagues today.

This was the only definite information obtainable after the meeting. France and Belgium it appears, already have practically agreed as to their position and the fact that the cabinet meeting which was to have been Thursday was advanced two days to hear M. Poincaré's report was taken in political circles as indicating that the premier's reply was ready and that it was negative on some important points in the British proposals.

DRY AGENT IS ON TRIAL

Charged in South Dakota with Giving Away Liquor

Sioax Falls, July 24.—The Knight-Huyek hearing will be held this afternoon in municipal court, it was announced last night. W. O. Knight, federal prohibition director for South Dakota, and his assistant, W. C. Huyek, are charged by John Neary "with giving away liquor." Allegations are that Mr. Knight and Mr. Huyek after a joy ride with two women last May gave these women liquor. Their house was raided that evening, it was said, and one of the women arrested on a charge of having liquor in her possession. She paid a fine of $50 on this charge but complainants allege that federal officers furnished the liquor.

KISSING CLOUDS NO THRILL AT ALL

MRS. BERTHA DALE HORCHEM

By NEA Service

Ransom, Kan. July 21.—Soaring more than three miles above the earth is not so much of a thrill!

That's what Mrs. Bertha Dale Horchem of this city, who holds the altitude record for women fliers, says.

She recently attained the height of 15,400 feet at St. Louis in a Curtiss plane, with a Hispano-Suiza eight-cylinder, 180 horsepower motor.

"It wasn't nearly so exciting as was my first flight a year ago," she record-breaker says.

She takes more pride in the fact that she learned to pilot a plane in a week, than in her altitude record.

"How does it feel to 'go up in the air three miles'?"

"Going up the first 8000 feet there was trouble," she says. "The other 8,400 feet took an hour and a half."

"Although the thermometer registered 90 degrees on the ground, it was intensely cold when we reached 14,000 feet."

"We wore fur-lined coats with woolen and leather helmets and heavy gloves. Yet, when I look out from behind the windshield it felt as if my face was being cut with sheet. My fingers became numb with cold.

"Coming down, I took my time for I knew it wouldn't do to change back to normal temperature too quickly."

The previous altitude record for women was 15,000 feet—made by Mlle. Andree Peyre of France at Los Angeles.

Women have not as yet approached the men's record, held by Lieutenant John C. Macready at 40,800.

CLOUDBURSTS CAUSE BIG RAIL DAMAGE

Cause Million and Half Damages in Wyoming, Railroads Tied-up

Casper, Wyo., July 25.—Three cloudbursts within the last 26 hours have sent flood waters raging through northwest Wyoming, flooding many buildings, washing away and causing damages estimated at $1,500,000, according to the latest reports.

Railroad traffic was demoralized by the southern rush of water which tore out bridges on the Chicago and Northwestern railroads between Casper and Lander.

Other roads also suffered from the flood and an Chicago Burlington and Quincy officials believe it will be six weeks before regular train service can be resumed between Casper, Thermopolis, and Billings, Mont.

Some persons caught by the flood ash before they could escape to high ground were forced to spend hours in trees before being rescued.

No loss of life was reported.

Lack of Larger Bills to Pay Other Banks Case

Berlin, July 25.—The Berlin newspapers today report that the German police have arrested a French courier belonging to the French embassy in Berlin, on an express train near Hagen on the edge of the Ruhr. Important documents intended for the commander of the French Ruhr army were seized.

RUST SUSPECT IN COUNTY JAIL

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 25.—A man giving his name as Jerry Perkins of Duluth is in the county jail here today suspected of being Edwin Rust of East Grand Forks, slayer of Sheriff I. B. Fulker, Aberdeen, S. D.

Sheriff Ible of Quinington county is positive, however, that the man is not Rust for he has no scar on the left side of his head—one of the marks of identification stressed in notices sent out by authorities.

The man arrested came in here from Erskine last night in an automobile but was riding with another man. He answered Rust's description as to height, weight, and color, but the scar was missing.

Vancouver, B. C., July 25.—A companion for "Laddie Boy" is awaiting President Harding here.

An old woman with a nondescript copy of a dog having traces of an airside visited the city hall. Her dog she said, looked like the pictures of Laddie Boy, and she asked permission to make a present of it to the chief executive when he visits Vancouver.

Discouraged from her purpose the woman said that if she is not permitted to present her puppy to the distinguished visitors she will express the animal to the White House.

MARKET NEWS NEW DOWNTURN ON WHEAT MART

Chicago, July 25.—New downturns in wheat values took place today during the first part of the early dealings. Fresh declines at Liverpool caused a further weakness in the New York market and selling here to hedge newly harvested wheat were notable bearish factors.

Reports of crop damages by rust and heat in the northwest attracted but little attention. The opening which varied from unchanged to 3-4 cents lower with Sept. 1-4 to 96 1-2 and Dec. 99 1-2 to $1 was followed by a moderate general pull back and then by a slight rally.

Buying based largely on report of black rust in the Canadian northwest and in corn led to higher wheat prices today after an early decline. The close was firm at 11-4c to 11-4c net advance with September, 98 1-2 to 98 5-8c and December, $1.01 5-8 to $1.01 3-4.

WOULD DEMAND HALF ON FURS FOR SUMMER USE

Washington, July 25.—Fashion's decree that women shall wear furs the year round has aroused great apprehension among naturalists, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society, whose officials believe that some of the animals that are abundant today may soon be in the class of the auk and the dodo.

FRANK INGALLS WITH N. P. 42 YEARS, RETIRED

Visited Bismarck in 1883 and
Was Present at Driving
Of Golden Spike

STANG IS SUCCESSOR

Frank Ingalls, supervisor of bridges and buildings on the Northern Pacific with headquarters at Jamestown, and an employee of the road for 42 years, will retire August 1. Mr. Ingalls is one of the two oldest employees of the railroad on the Fargo and Dakota divisions.

One of the last pieces of work of Mr. Ingalls in Bismarck was supervising the installation of the heavy concrete beams on the underpass of the new concrete road to the bridge several months ago. During his visit here Mr. Ingalls spoke of his anticipated retirement.

"I'm going to visit around a while, in California and other places," he said, "although it won't seem natural not to be working."

At Capital Celebration

Mr. Ingalls recalled when here the time of the driving of the Golden Spike which completed the Northern Pacific across the country and the dedication of the capital in Bismarck, at which a distinguished royal party and American officials was present.

Mr. Ingalls went into railroad work as a boy as an apprentice in the bridge and building department of the Boston and Maine Railroad, and became a carpenter. From 1874 to 1878 he was foreman of the bridge and building department. In 1879 he went to Denver and plunged into the mining game at Leadville for two years.

Mr. Ingalls' connection with the Northern Pacific began at Brainerd, Minnesota, in 1881. He was employed as a car clerk on September 7, 1881, and his name has been on the payroll since that time. In February, 1882, he went to Fargo as carpenter with the bridge and building department and in May was named foreman. On Nov. 1, 1882, he was named supervisor of buildings and bridges, and has held that position since that time. He moved to Jamestown with his family in 1883.

In Bismarck in '83 When Mr. Ingalls went to Jamestown the Missouri bridge between Bismarck and Mandan had not been completed. In the fall of 1883 when the golden spike was driven, Mr. Ingalls accompanied one of the four special trains that crossed the city en route to Montana for the occasion from Jamestown to Bismarck. The first two sections were accompanied by roadmasters, the next by Mr. Ingalls and the fourth by the then superintendent of this division J. M. Graham.

When Mr. Ingalls was appointed supervisor of bridges and building his territory extended from Fargo to Mandan a distance of 200 miles. Since then the branch lines out of Jamestown to Oakes, and Leeds, Casselton, Turtle Lake, Edmond, Cooperstown, Sanborn, Devils Lake and Fargo Southwestern branches have been built. In 1907 the number of miles had reached 804 and the division was divided and Mr. Ingalls given the Dakota division of 440 miles. Since then his territory has increased to 778 miles.

On August 20 Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls expect to leave for a month's stay in the New England states, returning to Jamestown before going to San Francisco and other California points where they expect to spend the winter. At San Francisco their three daughters, Mrs. Dorman Baldwin, Mrs. Phyllis Moe and Miss Jane Ingalls are located, Mrs. Moe having left for that city last Saturday. There are two other daughters, Miss Irma Ingalls, of Carlington, and Mrs. Lila Warner of Denver. His future plans are not yet decided.

J. E. Johnson, general agent for the N. P. at Fargo is the oldest man in point of service on the Fargo and Dakota divisions. He was district agent at Bismarck when Mr. Ingalls visited here in 1882 and he expects to be retired in a short time. As a tribute to one who had been a faithful employee the supervisors of the division from Mandan to St. Paul presented Mr. Ingalls with a Walrus leather band bag at a meeting of the supervisors held at St. Paul on June 8th. The day was also Mr. Ingalls' 70th birthday anniversary.

Thomas Stang will succeed Mr. Ingalls.

MOTOR GLIDERS MEAN NEW ERA IN AVIATION

London, July 25.—A new era in air flying, that of cheap, safe, popular air flying, is foreshadowed by the remarkable success attained by three British airplanes called motor gliders. One of these, a small monoplane fitted with a three horsepower engine, recently reached a speed of 53 miles an hour during tests near London. It climbed to 2,350 feet, and although in the air for an hour and twenty minutes, consumed less than a gallon of petrol.

French aviation experts also are perfecting similar "pocket-planes," intended for use by amateur aviators and sporting enthusiasts. At a contest soon to be held near Paris thirty of these diminutive planes will take part. In England a small "car with wings," capable of carrying its owner through the air at the speed of an express train with no motor power than is required by a motorcycle, has reached such a practical stage that orders are being booked for it by the public.

Rising out of small fields and being wonderfully controllable in the air, these cheaply-run winged cars are to be made to alight so slowly that the risk of a crash on landing, even under adverse circumstances, will be practically eliminated. Furthermore, such machines will be so handy on the ground, and their wings will fold so neatly, that it will be possible to house them in ordinary motor garages.

It is expected that the owner of one of these machines will be able to make the trip from London to Paris and back, sweeping high over the Channel and escaping all the irritations and delays of earth transport, for about $5. A movement is now on foot to get motor-garage proprietors to set aside smooth-surfaced fields, marked clearly so they can be seen from above. In this way the drivers of little "air cars," when on week-end aerial rambles, will have points all over the country where they can descend and replenish their gasoline tanks, or make any necessary repairs or adjustments.

RADIO-TO BE CHEAPER, SAYS ITS INVENTOR

Thinks Cost of Sending Messages Will Be Greatly Reduced in Future

London, July 24.—Another great step in the development of wireless telegraphic transmission has been realized, says Senator Marconi, who has returned to London after a two months' experimental cruise in his yacht "Electra." A system has been evolved by the Italian inventor whereby wireless messages are transmitted with a minimum of electrical power, and at very low cost.

"We have transmitted messages up to a distance of 2,250 miles, not only with a very much smaller amount of power and energy, but faster and more cheaply than with the ordinary system of long-distance wireless," said Senator Marconi. "When the new system is adopted it will mean that a power station for long-distance work can be erected at much less cost than at present. I have telegraphed on this system from Cape Verde Islands, off the African coast, to London. To send messages clearly and more rapidly over those 2,500 miles took less power than a message from London to Paris by the ordinary methods."

Senator Marconi said these advantages were

President and Mrs. Harding found time during their short visit in Tacoma, Wash., to greet suffering men in the veterans' hospital. No former soldier was more proud of the flowers he received from the visitors than Chauncey Mays, formerly of the 49th Field Artillery, who won a special word of sympathy from the "First Lady."

SEEK SHELTER IN STORMS ADVICE GIVEN

Don't Be Afraid to Hide, Expert Says—Avoid the Open, Trees and Screens

HOW LIGHTNING HITS

Milton, Mass., July 25.—Get under cover if possible when a thunder storm threatens. If this is not practicable, lie down. That is the advice which Alexander C. McArdle, director of the Blue Hill Observatory in this town and professor of meteorology at Harvard University, gives in an explanation of the action of lightning prepared for The Associated Press. He gives what he describes as "ten good rules to help people take care of themselves."

"In a battle," says Professor McArdle, "a hundred bullets are fired for each soldier killed. It is something like this with lightning flashes. There are a hundred discharges for every bolt of lightning that hits a person. Fortunately, most of every hundred streaks of lightning about ninety are from cloud to cloud or spill-over discharges of moderate electrical energy and are mostly horizontal, doing no damage whatever."

"About ten flashes in a hundred come vertically, that is, down to earth in a straight line. Some flashes come sideways and seem to be crooked, although there are really no flashes zigzagging like the teeth of a saw as artists generally depict lightning."

"The intense straight flashes are the ones to be feared, and it is a silly person who stands out in the open when such flashes are seen. He invites trouble, but the invitation is not always accepted."

"At this time of the year thunderstorms are frequent and there are a comparatively large number of fatal accidents. One reads in the press dispatches that four men are walking along a New Jersey beach during a thunderstorm. There is a flash of lightning, one man is killed, and the others stunned."

"Now there is no protection for a case like this unless one could carry around with him a metallic cover well grounded. The first rule is then: Do not stay out on a beach or in a field when dark, heavy clouds are overhead or coming slowly from the west or south. Get under cover if possible. If this is not practicable, lie down. Don't remain standing."

"Second: Do not stand under a tree with thick foliage. You are forming a part of the line of discharge, since the body, more particularly the skin if moist, is a better conductor than the trunk of the tree. More people are killed by lightning in this way than probably any other."

"Third: Don't stand in the doorway of a barn or at a window in proximity to a chimney. There are currents of air or winds, and the lightning follows to some extent air draft or column of rising air, especially warm air."

"Fourth: Don't laugh at any one's nervousness during a severe thunder storm. There is a good reason to be nervous. Even if one is in a building that is struck the damage is, in ninety-eight cases out of a hundred, confined to fipping out plaster or knocking off slates and tearing off any projecting timbers. But there are times when the storm clouds descend to earth and amid darkness the flashes are heavy and numerous. At such times there is a real danger of being near a chimney or a tree or a flagpole or a metal clothes-line."

"Fifth: Stock should not be tied near a wire fence."

"Sixth: There is no particular sense in going to bed. Standing on glass or rubber or any good insulator, a wooden blanket for example, will give one a little more security and a great deal more confidence. The probability of a person in an ordinary residence building being struck is very slight."

"Seventh: If you are near a person who has been struck make every effort to resuscitate him. Only rarely does lightning kill outright. Mostly people are stunned, and all that is needed is a little artificial respiration to restore them to consciousness. Of course get a doctor quick."

"Eighth: If you are in a trolley car and a flash comes in and burns the fuses with a roar and a blinding flash, sit still. The danger is over, and while you may be frightened you are not likely to be hurt."

"Ninth: If you have a radio, better cut it out during a thunder storm. The antennae should be grounded direct and all wires, as far as possible, kept outside."

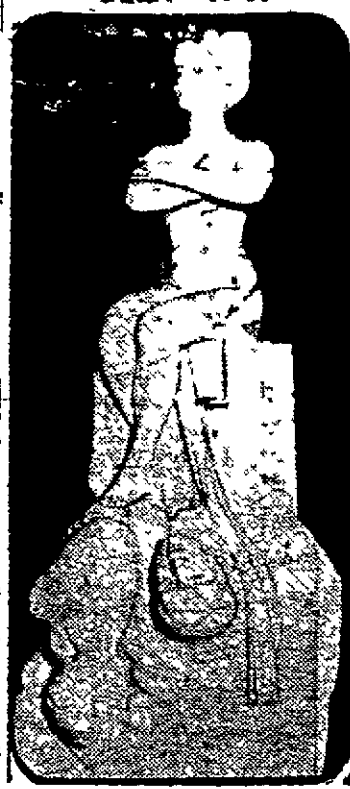

"Tenth: If your house is provided with good lightning rods you need not have much fear. Moreover, dwelling houses in city blocks are practically safe."

BALDWIN NOT SEEKING FOR PUBLICITY

New English Premier Is Found Modest in His New Position

London, July 25.—Stanley Baldwin, Britain's new pilot of the Ship of State, has won the admiration and good will of all classes by his simple, unostentatious manner and his outstanding human qualities. He is especially popular among the British and American newspaper men, who have found him approachable and unfailingly courteous. He has none of the aloofness, the superior manner or severe pride of position which the is apt to associate with prime ministers.

The journalists' fondness for the premier is reciprocated by Mr. Baldwin, for he realizes that his sudden rise to fame is due in no small measure to the sympathetic attitude adopted by them toward him.

At a recent banquet given by the British newspaper men in his honor, Mr. Baldwin said: "I am conscious more than ever how the creation of a reputation really is your prerogative and your prerogative alone. Whatever reputation I may have today, I beg to thank you for it from the bottom of my heart."

The prime minister referred to some of the remarkable qualities attributed to him by the British and American newspapers, which he said it was impossible to live up to. "I have noticed in my brief career in public life," said he, "that some men like the limelight and some do not. I have always found that wherever the limelight is brightest there is always a corresponding black shadow close to it, and I have hitherto been able to step into that shadow whenever the limelight was turned on. But I find now that I cannot escape it. I feel very much like a small insect under a microscope. Everything that I do or think or say is laid bare."

"I notice lately that certain personal papers have succeeded in dragging from obscurity my father's coachman and my old nurse. I am thankful to say that the revelations they have succeeded in dragging from special reference to any specific charge, or any specific defendant, and such testimony en masse be considered by the jury at the close of all the testimony and indictments found against a large number of persons, without violating the indictments so found?"

Answers Question Yes

The supreme court said the obvious answer was "yes." "It is significant in this connection, that with the possible exception of the testimony given by the Attorney-General relating to the non-appearance of Cathro before the jury, the defendants, who challenged the indictments, did not show that the name of any witness, who had given testimony concerning the charge against any defendant, has been omitted from the indictment. In our opinion, all of the indictments, except those against Cathro, upon which were not indorsed the name of the Attorney General, were clearly valid as against the objection that the names of witnesses examined before the grand jury were not indorsed thereon."

The opinion, delivered by Justice Birdzell, was signed by Justices Nease, Christianson and District Judge W. J. Kneeshaw. Chief Justice Bronson specially concurred in a separate opinion. He said he agreed that the court should not invoke its superintending control in the case before it. The trial court, he said, had power to order the subject matter of the cases to be resubmitted to the same or another grand jury or to take the proceedings for the filing of an information. The court did not do this, and the defendants were discharged.

FRANK INGALLS WITH N. P. 42 YEARS, RETIRED

Visited Bismarck in 1883 and
Was Present at Driving
Of Golden Spike

STANG IS SUCCESSOR

Frank Ingalls, supervisor of bridges and buildings on the Northern Pacific with headquarters at Jamestown, and an employee of the road for 42 years, will retire August 1. Mr. Ingalls is one of the two oldest employees of the railroad on the Fargo and Dakota divisions.

One of the last pieces of work of Mr. Ingalls in Bismarck was supervising the installation of the heavy concrete beams on the underpass of the new concrete road to the bridge several months ago. During his visit here Mr. Ingalls spoke of his anticipated retirement.

"I'm going to visit around a while, in California and other places," he said, "although it won't seem natural not to be working."

At Capital Celebration

Mr. Ingalls recalled when here the time of the driving of the Golden Spike which completed the Northern Pacific bank across the country and the dedication of the capitol in Bismarck, at which a distinguished royal party and American officials was present.

Mr. Ingalls went into railroad work as a boy as an apprentice in the bridge and building department of the Boston and Maine Railroad, and became a carpenter. From 1874 to 1878 he was foreman of the bridge and building department. In 1879 he went to Denver and plunged into the mining game at Leadville for two years.

Mr. Ingalls' connection with the Northern Pacific began at Brainerd, Minnesota, in 1881. He was employed as a car clerk on September 7, 1881, and his name has been on the pay-roll since that time. In February, 1882, he went to Fargo as carpenter with the bridge and building department and in May was named foreman. On Nov. 1, 1882, he was named supervisor of buildings and bridges, and has held that position since that time. He moved to Jamestown with his family in 1883.

In Bismarck in '83
When Mr. Ingalls went to Jamestown the Missouri bridge between Bismarck and Mandan had not been completed. In the fall of 1883 when the golden spike was driven, Mr. Ingalls accompanied one of the four specials that passed thru the city enroute to Jamestown for the occasion. From Jamestown to Bismarck, the first two sections were accompanied by roadmasters, the next by Mr. Ingalls and the fourth by the then superintendent of this division J. M. Graham.

When Mr. Ingalls was appointed supervisor of bridges and building his territory extended from Fargo to Mandan a distance of 200 miles. Since then the branch lines out of Jamestown to Oakes, and Leeds, Casselton, Turtle Lake, Edmund, Cooperstown, Sanborn, Devils Lake and Fargo Southwestern branches have been built. In 1907 the number of miles had reached 804 and the division was divided and Mr. Ingalls given the Dakota division of 440 miles. Since then his territory has increased to 778 miles.

On August 20 Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls expect to leave for a month's stay in the New England states, returning to Jamestown before going to San Francisco and other California points where they expect to spend the winter. At San Francisco their three daughters, Mrs. Dorman Baldwin, Mrs. Phyllis Moe and Miss Jane Ingalls are located, Mrs. Moe having left for that city last Saturday. There are two other daughters, Miss Anna Ingalls, of Carlington, and Mrs. Lila Warner of Denver. The future plans are not yet decided.

J. E. Johnson, general agent for the N. P. at Fargo is the oldest man in point of service on the Fargo and Dakota divisions. He was ticket agent at Bismarck when Mr. Ingalls visited here in 1882 and he too expects to be retired in a short time. As a tribute to one who had been a faithful employee, the supervisors of the division from Mandan to St. Paul presented Mr. Ingalls with a Walrus leather hand bag at a meeting of the supervisors held at St. Paul on June 8th. The day was also Mr. Ingalls' 70th birthday anniversary.

Thomas Stang will succeed Mr. Ingalls.

MOTOR GLIDERS MEAN NEW ERA IN AVIATION

London, July 25.—A new era in air flying, that of cheap, safe, popular air planing, is foreshadowed by the remarkable success attained by tiny British airplanes called motor gliders. One of these, a small monoplane fitted with a three horsepower engine, recently reached a speed of 53 miles an hour during tests near London. It climbed to 2,350 feet, and although in the air for an hour and twenty minutes, consumed less than a gallon of petrol.

French aviation experts also are perfecting similar "pocket-planes," intended for use by amateur aviators and sporting enthusiasts. At a contest soon to be held near Paris thirty of these diminutive planes will take part. In England a small "car with wings," capable of carrying its driver through the air at the speed of an express train with no more power than is required by a motorcycle, has reached such a practical stage that orders are being booked for it by the public.

Rising out of small fields and being wonderfully controllable in the air, these cheaply-run winged cars are to be made to alight so slowly that the risk of a crash on landing, even under adverse circumstances, will be practically eliminated. Furthermore, such machines will be so handy on the ground, and their wings will fold so neatly, that it will be possible to house them in ordinary motor garages.

It is expected that the owner of one of these machines will be able to make the trip from London to Paris and back, sweeping high over the Channel and escaping all the irritations and delays of earth transportation, for about $5. A movement is now on foot to get motor-garage proprietors to set aside smooth-surfaced fields, marked clearly so they can be seen from above. In this way the drivers of little "air cars," when on week-end aerial rambles, will have points all over the country where they can descend and replenish their gasoline tanks, or make any necessary repairs or adjustments.

RADIO TO BE CHEAPER, SAYS ITS INVENTOR

Thinks Cost of Sending Messages Will Be Greatly Reduced in Future

London, July 24.—Another great step in the development of wireless telegraphic transmission has been realized, says Senator Marconi, who has returned to London after a two months' experimental cruise in his yacht "Electra." A system has been evolved by the Italian inventor whereby wireless messages are transmitted with a minimum of electrical power, and at very low cost.

"We have transmitted messages up to a distance of 2,250 miles, not only with a very much smaller amount of power and energy, but faster and more cheaply than with the ordinary system of long-distance wireless," said Senator Marconi. "When the new system is adopted it will mean that a power station for long-distance work can be erected at much less cost than at present. I have telegraphed on this system from Cape Verde Islands, off the African coast, to London. To send messages clearly and more rapidly over those 2,500 miles took less power than a message from London to Paris by the ordinary method."

Senator Marconi explained that these advantages were gained by the utilization of waves that have not before been used. Given the necessary mechanical element, he said, messages could be sent clearly seven times faster than the present rate, and that the public and the newspapers would ultimately have the benefit of much cheaper commercial charges. His opinion is that wireless is only in its infancy, and that the future has in store greater marvels than have been revealed in the past.

Commenting on recent experiments conducted by American inventors looking to privacy in wireless telephony, Senator Marconi said he was afraid such an achievement was still far off. "I do not say that wireless telegraphy will ever be an absolutely private means of transmission, but I will say that in future it will be possible to make it much more difficult for anyone to get messages not intended for them."

Senator Marconi proposes to go on another experimental trip in a few weeks' time, and later to try the use of long-distance wireless from the coast of the United States to Europe.

TAX MATTER IS POSTPONED UNTIL SEPT. 4

iation, was on vacation and having his eyes treated and was unable to appear for sometime. After discussion the whole matter was postponed, first until August 8, and then to September 4.

With respect to other corporations, which included the Standard Oil Company, Hughes Electric Company, Bismarck Grocery Company, Gamble-Robinson Company, Stacy Bismarck Company, International Harvester Company, Russell Millar Milling Company, Provident Life Insurance Company, Northern Produce Company, attorneys appeared for some of the concerns seeking information as to the basis for action.

Mr. Hellstrom said the tax sought was an corporate excess, which he defined as the capital employed by the companies in Burleigh county.

Attorney Zuger for the International Harvester Company filed a motion, after inquiring into the method by which the amount of property alleged to have escaped taxation, questioning the jurisdiction of the board in the matter and asking the proceedings be dismissed, and also asked postponement. Permission was granted attorneys to examine into the method by which Mr. Hellstrom arrived at his conclusions.

Mr. Zuger declared that the companies desired to be entirely fair in the matter, that all believed they had paid all the taxes they should pay, and could not understand the method by which the allegations were arrived at.

SEEK SHELTER IN STORMS ADVICE GIVEN

Don't Be Afraid to Hide, Expert Says—Avoid the Open, Trees and Screens

HOW LIGHTNING HITS

Milton, Mass., July 25.—Get under cover if possible when a thunder storm threatens. If this is not practicable, lie down. That is the advice which Alexander G. McArdie, director of the Blue Hill Observatory in this town and professor of meteorology at Harvard University, gives in an explanation of the action of lightning prepared for The Associated Press. He gives what he describes as "ten good rules to help people take care of themselves."

"In a battle," says Professor McArdie, "a hundred bullets are fired for every one killed. It is something like this with lightning flashes. There are a hundred discharges for every bolt of lightning that hits a person. Fortunately, too, of every hundred streaks of lightning about ninety are from cloud to cloud or spill-over discharges of moderate electrical energy and are mostly horizontal, doing no damage whatever."

"About ten flashes in a hundred come vertically, that is, down to earth in a straight line. Some flashes come sideways and seem to be crooked, although there are really no flashes zigzagging like the teeth of a saw as artists generally depict lightning."

"The intense straight flashes are the ones to be feared, and it is a silly person who stands out in the open when such flashes are seen. He is never in trouble, but the invitation is not always accepted."

"At this time of the year thunder storms are frequent and there are a comparatively large number of fatal accidents. One reads in the press dispatches that four men are walking along a New Jersey beach during a thunderstorm. There is a flash of lightning, one man is killed and the others stunned."

"Now there is no protection for a case like this unless one could carry around with him a metallic cover well grounded. The first rule is then: Do not stay out on a beach in a field when dark, heavy clouds are overhead or coming slowly from the west or south. Get under cover if possible. If this is not practicable, lie down. Don't remain standing."

"Second: Do not stand under a tree with thick foliage. You are forming a part of the line of discharge, since the body, more particularly the skin if moist, is a better conductor than the trunk of the tree. More people are killed by lightning in this way than probably any other cause."

"Third: Don't stand in the doorway of a barn or at a window in proximity to a chimney. There are currents of air or winds, and the lightning follows to some extent any draft or column of rising air, especially when it is raining."

"Fourth: Don't laugh at any one's nervousness during a severe thunder storm. There is a good reason to be nervous. Even if one is in a building that is struck the damage is, in ninety-eight cases out of a hundred, confined to flapping out plaster or knocking off slate and tearing off any projecting timbers. But there are times when the storm clouds descend to earth and amid darkness the flashes are heavy and numerous. At such times there is danger. It is dangerous to be near a chimney or a tree or a flagpole or a metal clothes-line."

"Fifth: Stock should not be tied near a wire fence."

"Sixth: There is no particular sense in going to bed. Standing on glass or rubber or any good insulator, a wooden blanket for example, will give one a little more security and a great deal more confidence. The probability of a person in an ordinary residence building being struck is very slight."

"Seventh: If you are near a person who has been struck make every effort to resuscitate him. Only rarely does lightning kill outright. Mostly people are stunned, and all that is needed is a little artificial respiration to restore them to consciousness. Of course get a doctor quick."

"Eighth: If you are in a trolley car and a flash comes in and burns the fuses with a roar and a blinding flash, sit still. The danger is over, and while you may be frightened you are not likely to be hurt."

"Ninth: If you have a radio, better cut it out during a thunder storm. The antennae should be grounded direct and all wires, as far as possible, kept outside."

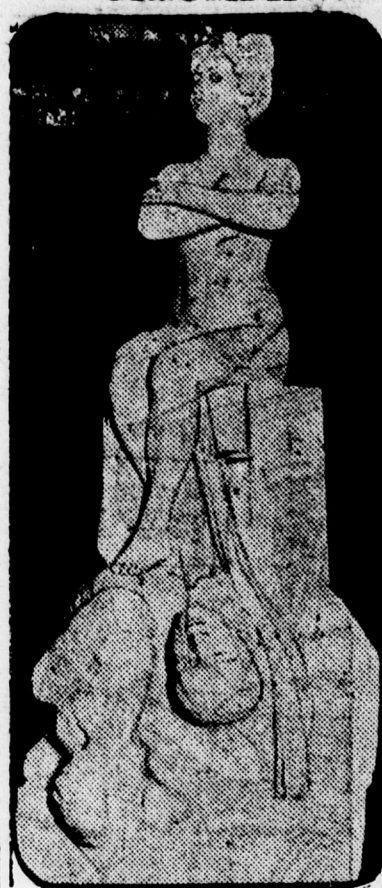

"Tenth: If your house is provided with good lightning rods you need not have much fear. Moreover, dwelling houses in city blocks are practically safe."

BALDWIN NOT SEEKING FOR PUBLICITY

New English Premier Is Found Modest in His New Position

London, July 25.—Stanley Baldwin, Britain's new pilot of the Ship of State, has won the admiration and good will of all classes by his simple, unostentatious manner and his outstanding human qualities. He is especially popular among the British and American newspaper men, who have found him approachable and unfailingly courteous. He has none of the aloofness, the superior manner or severe pride of position which one is apt to associate with prime ministers.

The journalists' fondness for the premier is reciprocated by Mr. Baldwin, for he realizes that his sudden rise to fame is due in no small measure to the sympathetic attitude adopted by them toward him.

At a recent banquet given by the British newspaper men in his honor, Mr. Baldwin said: "I am conscious more than ever how the creation of a reputation really is your prerogative and your prerogative alone. Whatever reputation I may have today I owe to thank you for it from the bottom of my heart."

"I have noticed in my brief career in public life," said he, "that some men like the limelight and some do not. I have always found that where ever the limelight is brightest there is always a corresponding black shadow close to it, and I have hitherto been able to step into that shadow whenever the limelight was turned on. But I find now that I cannot escape it. I feel very much like a small insect under a microscope. Everything that I do or think or say is laid bare."

"I notice lately that certain persevering powers have succeeded in dragging from obscurity my father's coachman and my old nurse. I am thankful to say that the revelations they have succeeded in dragging from

special reference to any specific charge, or any specific defendant and such testimony en masse be considered by the jury at the close of all the testimony and indictments found against a large number of persons, without violating the indictments so found?"

Answers Question Yes

The supreme court said the obvious answer was "yes." "It is significant, in this connection, that with the possible exception of the testimony given by the Attorney-General relating to the non-appearance of Cathro before the jury, the defendants, who challenged the indictments, did not show that the name of any witness, who had given testimony concerning the charge against any defendant, has been omitted from the indictment. In our opinion, all of the indictments, except those against Cathro, upon which were not indorsed the name of the Attorney General, were clearly valid as against the objection that the names of witnesses examined before the grand jury were not indorsed thereon.

The opinion, delivered by Justice Birdzell, was signed by Justices Nusselt, Christianson and District Judge W. J. Kneshaw. Chief Justice Bronson specially concurred in a separate opinion. He said he agreed that the court should not invoke its superintending control in the case before it. The trial court, he said, had power to order the subject matter of the cases to be resubmitted to the same or another grand jury or to take the proceedings for the filing of an information. The court did not do this, and the defendants were discharged.

Casper, Wyo., July 25.—Three cloudbursts within the last 26 hours have sent flood waters raging through northwest Wyoming, flooding many buildings, washing away and causing damages estimated at $1,500,000, according to the latest reports.

Railroad traffic was demoralized by the southern rush of water which cut off bridges on the Chicago and Northwestern railroads between Casper and Lander.

Other roads also suffered from the flood and Chicago Burlington and Quincy officials believe it will be six weeks before regular train service will be resumed between Casper, Thermopolis, and Billings, Mont.

Some persons caught by the flood before they could escape to high ground were forced to spend hours there before being rescued.

No loss of life was reported.

AUTO ACCIDENTS UP 42 PER CENT IN THREE YEARS

New York, July 25.—Lax supervision of motor vehicle drivers and the resultant increase of 42 percent in the automobile death rate during the past three years, is due to the fact that the majority of state legislatures are from rural districts where strict examination and registration of drivers is not a vital matter, according to a report submitted by William J. Cox, traffic accident research engineer, to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. There were 14,000 deaths from motor accidents last year, he said.

After a thorough investigation of the problem, and a careful examination of the records of some 300,000 accidents, Mr. Cox has prepared a table showing that registration and examination of all drivers is the only method of stopping the rising number of traffic casualties.

In Maryland, Massachusetts and Connecticut, where strict supervision of drivers is maintained, casualties have fallen off 2 percent, while increasing 42 percent over the country. According to Mr. Cox's figures, there would have been 4,300 fewer deaths from automobiles in 1922 had the percentage of these three states been universal.

"Only seven states require the examination of all motor vehicle operators," said the report, "while 35 states require only chauffeurs to be licensed, and many of these are never examined. An automobile driver's license must be something to be acquired through merit, and not through the payment of half a dollar."

MARKET NEWS NEW DOWNTURN ON WHEAT MART

Chicago, July 25.—New downturn in wheat values took place today during the first part of the early dealings. Fresh declines at Liverpool caused a further weakness in the New York market and selling here to hedge newly harvested wheat were notable bearish factors.

Reports of crop damages by rust and heat in the northwest attracted but little attention. The opening which varied from unchanged to 3-4 cents lower with Sept. 9 1-4 to 96 1-2 and Dec. 99 1-2 to $1 was followed by a moderate general set back and then by a slight rally.

Buying based largely on report of blight rust in the Canadian northwest and in corn led to higher wheat prices today after an early decline. The close was firm at 11-4c to 11-4c net advance with September, 98 1-2 to 98 5-8c and December, $1.01 5-8 to $1.01 3-4.

WOULD DEMAND HALF ON FURS FOR SUMMER USE

Washington, July 25.—Fashion's decree that women shall wear furs the year round has aroused great apprehension among naturalists, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society, whose officials believe that some of the animals that are abundant today may soon be in the class of the oak and the dodo.

"It is only by educating the American public to the need for periods of protection for these animals," the bulletin says, "that we will be able to preserve one of the country's most valuable assets for the enjoyment and profit of future generations."

Recently the society sent an expedition to an island off the coast of Lower California to try to find specimens of the great seal colonies which used to inhabit the island, but not a single animal was seen.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE
A woman sacrificed upon the altar of man's selfish ambitions. This is the central theme of "Slander the Woman," Allen Holubar's new First National production with Dorothy Phillips in the stellar role, which shows at the Eltinge theatre, today and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

In the poignant, manner characteristic of all his work, Director Holubar shows how circumstances are twisted by an ambitious judge to secure his own rise in the world, and how in so doing he robs a woman of her most sacred heritage—a fair name. There is no false sentimentality about "Slander the Woman." It is a drama of the present day, based upon actual life. The story of the day is laid in Canada. A woman, Yvonne Desmarrest, portrayed by Dorothy Phillips, becomes involved in a murder through no fault of her own. At the trial Judge Durocher presides. He is a candidate at the forthcoming parliamentary election and he sees in the trial an opportunity to win popularity through brandishing Miss Desmarrest as "the other woman."

CAPITAL

Miss La Rue is as French as her name, with all the artistic expression for which the French are noted. The character she portrays in "A Blind Bargain" is one of the most interesting and absorbing study in psycho-analysis. The picture was directed by Wallace Worley. In the cast are Lon Chaney, Jacqueline Logan, Raymond McKee, Virginia True Boardman and Virginia Madison.

The South Dakota roads are fine, excellent progress is being made by the trucks. The trucks were driven until dark in an effort to out distance a storm that was gathering in the north. The trucks passed thru Bison. Just as the storm was breaking the scouts piled out at a farm twenty-two miles from Bison, the twenty-two mile being made in an hour. A good supper was served and the boys enjoyed themselves with music for a time, then hit the "corn" for the haymow was filled with cornstalks. Scouts can sleep on anything and morning soon arrived with no excitement except that one scout growled about a dream of continuing a trip in the truck.

DOOR LOCKED?

Did you ever lock the house door, climb into your auto for a motor trip, then get out and go back to make sure the door was locked? Did you have to try the knob not once but several times before convinced that the door wouldn't swing open at the first touch of a thief who might happen along?

Did you ever get out of bed and "make sure" the lights were turned off in a certain room, or in the cellar, even though you recalled very distinctly having turned them out?

Did you ever go over the house carefully before retiring or leaving the premises, to make sure that nothing had been forgotten in the way of smouldering cigarettes that might start a fire? Did you make the rounds of the house several times, repeatedly scrutinizing the same places, and even then not be confident that there was no fire hazard?

Did you ever... O what's the use? All of us are subject to these occasional losses of confidence in our own memory and judgment.

Cases such as these are apt to make us wonder occasionally if we are "all there" mentally. An insanity specialist, interrogated, might not be very comforting in his answers. Old Dr. Johnson, out for a stroll and passing a picket fence, always had to his every picket with his cane as he passed. Sometimes he believed that he had missed a certain picket, then he'd walk back a block or two and hit the offending piece of lumber an especially hard and comforting rap.

Think of Dr. Johnson, next time you have the impulse to step on every crack of a sidewalk—or avoid stepping on them.

These queer brain short-circuits or throw-backs are not so much matters of sanity as of nerves. They belong in the same class as nervous drumming with fingertips, tapping of shoes to keep time to music, counting stairs as we climb, making freakish moron-pencil designs in absentminded moments while talking over the phone or waiting for a number.

Such brain lapses, unless curbed, can become annoying habits. Fundamentally they are nervous disturbances.

And they demonstrate that good memory, confidence in one's judgment and acts, and the alertness that is the opposite of absent-mindedness—all these are in varying degree a condition of nerves, rather than of education or determination or the hanging of "pep" mottoes over the desk.

Safeguard your nerves, for only when they are functioning harmoniously does your brain do its best work. You've observed how difficult it is to concentrate and reason when nervously restless.

FATE'S DICE

Maybe you can explain this: Rodger Dolan rented a summer cottage. A stone's throw from the back door a former tenant had drilled a well. Not striking water when the hole was 28 feet deep, the tenant—instead of filling the excavation—had placed boards over the top.

Time had made the boards rotten, and fear that some one would fall through caused Rodger considerable worry. He had a great many week-end visitors and he was forever cautioning them not to step on the boards. He warned them on arrival, and at least twice a day while they visited.

The abandoned well became sort of an obsession with Dolan. His warnings began to get on his visitors' nerves. The other evening the latest batch of visitors, while lounging on the front porch, were startled by a loud yell. They rushed to investigate.

Rodger Dolan, going to the spring for a pail of water in the blackness of night, had fallen into the well. Injured, not seriously.

There's a lesson in psychology back of this incident. Dolan had become so intent on cautioning others to avoid the danger that it never occurred to him he might be the victim.

He was so engrossed on protecting others that he forgot to protect himself. Overconfidence in his own ability to escape a fall into the abandoned well had made him careless.

All of us become negligent in the presence of constant danger, for familiarity with the hazard lulls us into a feeling of false security, a belief that the situation of pitfall is dangerous to others more than to ourselves. Caught off our guard, we're easy victims.

There is such a thing as putting in so much time minding other people's business that our own affairs suffer. Probably this is why we are ready to send missionaries to save others when we need saving ourselves.

Few of us ever consider that existing danger is a peril to ourselves. We picture the danger as existing for others. Every auto speeder knows that speeding is apt to cause accidents—but usually he speeds on, convinced that the danger doesn't apply to himself.

Fate, too, has a lot to do with it. We know a man who is so fearful of fire that, every night for years, before retiring he has carefully explored every room of his house to make sure that no blaze has started. Fear of fires makes him reluctant to go to bed. It frequently keeps him awake for hours.

Despite this caution, he has had three fires in his house. On the other hand, all of us know careless individuals who never have a fire, though they repeatedly do such things as putting a glowing cigarette on a shelf and forgetting it.

Often we seem to create what we fear. We become the victims of catastrophe because we expect (fear) to become victims.

RHEUMATISM

Arnica buyers, ahoy! A serum that appears to cure rheumatism is announced by the clinic of New York University Medical School. Five thousand cases have been handled, four out of every five or close to it. The serum beats snake oil. Few people who think they have rheumatism really have the genuine "multiple infection arthritis." "Rheumatism" covers a multitude of ailments, generally neuritis.

Smile While You Shave

Our idea of a shave is a barber shaving his dentist.

We would hate to be a collector because they must think everybody stays mad all the time.

Early bird doesn't get the sleep. Man wants but little here below his chin in hot weather.

Many people are afraid to dive into shallow water. What we need is more like him.

We would hate to live in a big house and have to hunt for our pipe in every room.

The latest trouble always seems to be the worst.

It is easy to get too sick to work and still feel well enough to go fishing.

The smartest dog we know of barks at every man he sees carrying a walking stick.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

The Twins and Mister Sky Bow came back to the place where the Googlies lived. But this time the poor Googlies were not happy. They were greatly changed.

"Bad Old Cross Patch had been there and waded the magic stick he called 'Old Harry,' and now the Googlies were as unhappy as if they didn't live in Rainbow Land at all.

"Oh, oh, oh!" they were sobbing. "We're so sorry we are Googlies. Oh my, but we're sorry! If we didn't have such big eyes we couldn't cry so much. We'd rather be as blind as bats than have our ugly eyes that see everything. Oh, we'd like to be Googlies, so we do!"

"Oh, for shame!" said Nancy sternly. "It's silly to cry about something you can't help. Just shut your eyes up and look at the little red school houses all over the world, and count them!"

The Googlies were so surprised they couldn't answer. But they wiped their poppy eyes and obeyed meekly. "I see fifty million!" said one.

"I see sixty million!" said another. "Oh, I see a hundred million school houses," said a third. "What are they all for?"

"They're for little boys and girls to study in," said Nancy. "When they want to know where the North Pole is they look in a book. When they want to know who the president is they look in a book. When they want to know about the Mississippi River, they look in a book. While all you have to do is to stretch your eyes. Which would you rather be—a Googly, or have to study all the time?"

"Oh, we'd rather be Googlies!" they all cried. "Oh, thank you so much. We're quite happy again. Old Cross Patch can't scare us now." (To Be Continued.)

THE YELLOW SEVEN

THE BOX TRICK

BY EDWARD SHELLEY

CHAI-HUNG

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Chai-Hung, influential Chinese, calls at the home of John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo, to tell of the death of Mr. Allison, victim of a gang murder. Peter Pennington is detailed by the government to run to catch the Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Monica Vinay lives with her brother, Captain Hewitt. Pennington suspects Chai-Hung of being leader of the bandits. Hewitt procures a warrant for the arrest of Chai-Hung.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Chai-Hung called here this afternoon."

Hewitt started. "This afternoon!" he echoed incredulously. "He asked if you were in—and said he was coming way for some time. Mr. Pennington was here, too. He'll tell you all about it."

The Commissioner passed a weary hand over his black hair. "Where is Pennington now?" "I haven't seen him since tea."

A sudden movement in the wild garden outside attracted her attention. She stepped close up to the gate, and peered into the darkness. Standing half in the shadow of a stunted palm, she saw a tall, gaunt figure, wearing a loose costume of pale blue material. Monica caught her brother's sleeve and pulled him forward.

"There's a man out there, Jack," she told him softly.

The Commissioner looked. "It's Pennington, I suppose," he growled presently. "What the devil's he want to hang about the house like that for?"

At that moment, the scarecrow raised an arm and beckoned. "How are we for time?"

She consulted her wrist-watch. "You've twenty minutes before dinner. Don't stop out too long."

Hewitt looked at Monica. Thirty seconds later he had passed down the steps, making his way toward the tree.

Mrs. Vinay went in to dress for dinner.

The deep-toned Dungan gong, reverberating in the stillness of the night, brought her back to the veranda. Her heart was none the less seen. She hurried down the passage to his room, tapped on the door, then getting no response, looked in. The room was empty and a glance sufficed to tell her he had not been there since his return. The neatly piled clean clothes were still where the servant had put them. Her mind officially troubled, she invaded his office, the stepped toward the writing-table, and grimaced at the impending disaster swept over her. She thrust it from her resolutely, and pressed onward. Both hands resting on the wooden surface, she gazed horror-stricken before her at a dagger with a gilt handle that stuck upright in the table, its thin steel blade in a gleaming heap of torn paper fragments. Dully she grasped the powers of reason. She remembered the warning of the writing-table, and the fact that the tattered document was the warrant for the arrest of Chai-Hung, and that the yellow handle of the knife bore seven distinct black dots on the side that was turned toward her—four on the upper half and three below.

She suddenly became aware that Pennington, serene, immaculate—was at her elbow.

She swung around on him fiercely. "Mr. Pennington, what does all this mean? Where is Jack? What have you done with him?"

Pennington was frankly puzzled. "Jack? Captain Hewitt? I haven't seen him. Isn't he back yet?"

Monica caught her breath. "Somebody beckoned to him from the garden," she raced on wildly. "We both thought it was you. Jack went out. He hasn't dressed for makan, and there's that on his table. For God's sake, tell me what it all means!"

Pennington guided her to a chair, then bent over the dagger. A second later, he had rushed from the room toward the kitchen-quarters.

She heard the voluble tones of the cook-boy, a yell of pain, the dragging of a heavy body along the floor and the servant was flung like a sack into the office, still clinging to a flimsy box with a metal handle—the only luggage he had brought with him when he arrived.

Pennington slammed the door and leaned against the door-jamb.

"Get up, you swine!" he said sternly. "Get up and find your tongue or, by heaven! I'll flay you alive!"

The boy scrambled to his feet and stood sullenly in the center of the bare room.

"You will lead me to Chai-Hung!" hissed Pennington.

The Englishman caught him by both shoulders and shook him violently. A volume of inarticulate grunts followed. Pennington plucked the knife from the woodwork.

"Mrs. Vinay," he said over his shoulder, "do you mind waiting for me in the dining-room?"

He entered the room and looked back. "What are you going to do?" she demanded fearfully.

He shrugged his shoulders helplessly. "Please go," he whispered. "I've got to use every method I know to enable me to get on the track of your brother—before it's too late."

Collecting herself with an effort, she crept from the room, closing the door after her.

In the grim half-hour that followed she lost all sense of time. She looked up suddenly to see Pennington before her.

"I'm just off," he said quietly. "Then you know—?"

"He has told me as much as I wanted to know," she said doubtfully. "It all sounds so utterly hopeless," she declared.

Pennington was leaning against the table, eating bread and cheese alternately.

"You must remember, Mrs. Vinay," he told her between the mouthfuls, "that I have made it my business to study the movements of our 'arch-bandit.' It would be impossible for me to know all his hiding places, but I have discovered a good few of them, sufficient, I feel convinced, to assist me in sifting fact from fiction."

Wong-See—the intelligent young man who had fallen in the act of making a hurried exit—was a pure sort of creature, when brought face to face with the serious problems of this life. By dint of dire threats and much patience, I gathered he was on the point of proceeding to Chai-Hung's lair, to the place where your brother has been taken. In effect, we have arrived at a delightful compromise. Wong-See is between my wife and Chai-Hung. If he fails to join Chai-Hung—the vengeance of that gentleman will fall upon him, swiftly and surely, whether he seek refuge in China or any old island in the archipelago. The remaining horn of the dilemma is—"

"Death by the most horrible torture imaginable—at the hands of 'he who sits in the dark,' otherwise known as you."

He is to proceed to Chai-Hung's hiding-place, as he had originally intended, only with Pennington in his immediate rear. In this manner, he stands a sporting chance of dodging a horrible end at the hands of either."

He reached for his hat. Monica slipped between him and the door.

"You're not going alone?"

"Most certainly."

She stamped her foot impatiently. "You mustn't do that!" she cried. "It's positively absurd. Supposing there are others waiting for Wong-See in the jungle?"

"I've been in tight corners before, Mrs. Vinay," he reminded her gently. "And I've managed to squirm out of somehow. If I attempt to start out with a crowd of native soldiers, the information will be tapped out on some native telegraph-system almost before the men have left the barracks. Hewitt will be spirited away and the chances of rescue will become a thousand times more remote."

"One more couldn't possibly do any harm," protested Monica.

"I'm not taking any chances," said Pennington.

"Take me!" said the girl, flushed to the roots of her hair.

"You!"

"Why not? I shall be at my wits' end if you leave me here alone." Her voice broke. "If Chai-Hung's not taking you, why shouldn't he take me? While you are away, looking for Jack?"

Pennington glanced hurriedly at his watch and Monica, realized that her argument had gone home. She seized his jacket impulsively with both hands.

Pennington's one weakness lay in his utter inexperience at the opposite sex.

"Come on, then," he said, with a grin.

"There's an electric torch in the right-hand drawer of your brother's desk. We may want it."

Trembling with excitement, she hurried in search of it, joining him a few seconds later at the foot of the veranda steps. Alas, the exact spot where she had seen the man was now empty.

Pennington had imperceptibly changed the position of the electric torch, the cook-boy awaited the order to proceed.

Soon they had left the beaten track and were threading their way through tangled undergrowth, under branches so closely interwoven as to exclude the stars, the humming of countless legions of insects in their ears, the faint light of the electric torch describing an illuminated circle on the back of Wong-See.

The night air blew suddenly chill and a slight shiver ran through Monica.

Her companion brought his head almost to a level with hers.

"Cold?" he demanded softly.

"She snatched up him."

"Really, actually, I'm supremely content."

They relapsed into silence again, and Pennington, conscious of a smoldering, inconsumable fire, within, glanced covertly at the trim figure of the attractive widow who kept pace with him, and was glad that he had let her come. He quickened his step, until the entire party found herself compelled to run to keep up with him.

CAPITALS IN BATTING BEE AT LOCAL PARK

Beat Valley City Team, 16 to 2, in Hard-Hitting Contest on Local Grounds

PLAYING AGAIN TODAY

LADIES DAY AGAIN
Ladies Day will be observed each Friday at the local ball park, the management announced today. Ladies will be admitted free to the Valley City-Bismarck game at 6:15 p. m. Friday of this week. Valley City began a six-game series with the locals last night.

The Bismarck batters enjoyed one of those days so sweet to the player whose eye is on the next publication of the hitting averages—for they slammed out 19 hits in the game with Valley City at the local ball park last night, all but one of the 10 players the locals had in the game hitting safely once or more times.

It was a home-coming for the local team, after a series in Valley City, and although the management had failed to advertise the series put in under a new schedule more than a few hours in advance, the local players had a warm reception prepared for the visitors, and the fans that were there were with them on the committee.

It might not have been a bad game if Ramage, the visitors' short stop hadn't hurt a leg, which caused a shift in the line-up. Errors in the first inning put Wagner, who started pitching for Valley City, in hot water, and the locals followed this with hits. Cantin relieved him in the third but the locals garnered five hits before a man was put out and Manager Schanlaub of the visitors, regular first baseman, playing short in Ramage's place, went in to pitch. Bismarck only got two runs off his weak curves, but then they were tired out by this time.

Joe Day started pitching for Bismarck and was going in good shape. Charley Boardman got the only hit off him in three innings. After Bismarck had piled up a big lead, Shanley called Al Bernier to the box and let Day go home and rest. It also gave Bernier a chance to try his shoots. Two years ago, as pitcher and outfielder, he won nine games and lost six with the Mitchell club of the Dakota League but he's been shining in the field and at bat instead of the box this year. In the sixth, Kennedy and Lauber hit safely and Schanlaub scored them with a two-base drive.

Starting the game for Bismarck, Newt Randall went out, second to first. Dougan hit safely and was forced by Shanley short to second. Bernier walked. Shanley and Bernier executed a double steal and catcher Wallin, throwing to catch Shanley, put the ball in left-field, Shanley scoring. Reider hit safely and scored Bernier, took second when Valley fielders failed to get Zimmerman's slow roller, and Reider and Zimmerman scored when Kennedy fumbled Condon's grounder and then threw over first.

The slaughter came in the third. Bernier started the inning with a hit. Reider sacrificed and the Valley players batted the play, he reaching first. Zimmerman walked. Condon, Zart, Day, Dougan, Shanley, Reider and Zimmerman hit safely, with one out and a base on balls mixed in. When the dust had rolled away Bismarck had 10 runs, and had made nine hits.

The two teams play again today. Throckmorton or Taylor have the call to pitch for Bismarck, while Charley Boardman may get in the box for the visitors. The game is called at 6:15 P. M.

ATTACK UMP'S AFTER GAME WITH YANKEES

Crowd at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Excited When Yankees Win Game

Chicago, July 25.—Great excitement prevailed at Shibe Park yesterday when the Yankees trimmed the Athletics 7 to 9. As the game ended a shouting mob of fans rushed over the field and assaulted Dick Nallie, umpire. City police hurried to his assistance and saved him from injury. The fans objected to his decision when Whitley Witt singled to left field in the seventh inning. Walker made an effort to nip the ball and argued eloquently when Nallie declared he had caught it on a short loop. During the game Babe Ruth knocked his 23rd homer and tied Cy Williams for the lead.

The Cincinnati Reds playing in Cincinnati beat the Cardinals 7 to 4, thereby starting on another raise after the league leading Giants who were idle. The only other game scheduled in the National League, Chicago vs. Pittsburgh was called off because of wet grounds.

The Indians and Browns divided a double header in St. Louis, the Browns winning the first 3 to 1 and losing the second 3 to 2 in 13 innings.

In the first game McManus made a home run after Williams had singled, deciding the issue. Brower scored the Cleveland score when he hit a homer in the seventh period. Tobin tied the score when he duplicated the hit in the Browns hat. In Chicago, Detroit took a double header 4 to 1 and 9 to 6. The White Sox were unable to hit the pellet in the first game. Heilmann scored his fourteenth homer of the season.

The Senators lacking hitting power in their game with the Red Sox in Boston lost 6 to 1.

Puzzling Plays

By Billy Evans

THE PLAY
What constitutes interference by the batsman when his bat is the weapon of interference? Must it be intentional to be penalized?

There is a runner on first. The batsman attempts to sacrifice the runner to second. His effort is a bunt down the thirdbase line.

The catcher dashes out to make a play. As he is about to pick up the ball and make a play on the runner, the batsman so throws his bat that it hits the ball, making it impossible for the catcher to complete the play. The runner on first went to third and the batsman reached first.

When the batsman threw his bat he had his back to the play and probably had no intention of interfering. Should that fact receive any consideration?

What is the proper ruling?

THE INTERPRETATION
The batsman should be declared out for interference.

When his bat came into contact with the ball, preventing the catcher from picking it up and making a play, he created an interference.

No consideration can be given to the fact that he had his back to the play, and had no idea his bat would prevent a play by the catcher.

If serious consideration was given to the intent, the umpire would invariably contend there was no intent to interfere.

The batsman should have been declared out, and the runner who went from first to third sent back to first, as no runners can advance on such an interference.

Kinks The Links

Player drives a long ball from the tee. Hard rains had rendered some of the fairways rather muddy as certain improvements had just been completed. A cow grazing on the course trampled on the ball and it becomes embedded in the hoof of the cow. For a time the ball could not be found, but was later discovered close by the cow which had shifted its grazing territory. Must the ball be played from where found or where it was apparent that it first came to rest, it being possible to follow the flight of the ball from the tee? If the ball has been rendered unfit for play because of the happening, must the player continue to use that ball or has he the right to drop a new one?

This rather unusual happening is governed by section 3 of rule 17, which states if a ball at rest be displaced by any agency outside the match, except wind, the player shall drop the ball as near as possible to where it lay without penalty. In this case the cow must be considered an outside agency. If the ball has been rendered unfit for play because the cow trampled on it, the player has a right to drop another ball.

Players find their balls resting in a hazard within a club length of each other. Has the player who is farther from the hole the right to have his opponent lift his ball before he plays his next shot?

When the balls lie within a club length of each other through the green or in a hazard, the ball lying nearer to the hole may, at the option of either the player or the opponent, be lifted until the other ball is played, and shall then be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay.

Workmen making some repairs on the fairway have removed their coats which are lying on the ground near the section under repair. Player drives the ball from the tee and it comes to rest in the pocket of one of the workmen's coat. One player contended that the ball must be driven from the pocket, the location of it being apparent, unless the other player wanted to lift the ball and suffer a stroke penalty. The player who had driven the ball from the tee insisted that he had a right to lift the ball and drop it without penalty. Who is right?

The player had a perfect right to lift the ball from the pocket of the coat and drop it without penalty. The rule covering this phase of play says: "A ball lying on or touching clothes on ground under repair may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole."

SHEERLY RANKS HIGH AMONG FIRST SACKERS

Chicago White Sox Man One of Best of Fielding First Basemen

By NEA Service.

Chicago, July 25.—Who is the best fielding first baseman in the majors?

George Sisler would no doubt be an almost unanimous reply to such a question. Others might select Stuffy McInnis of the Boston Braves. Some no doubt would favor Charley Grimm of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Probably very few would pick Earl Sheely of the Chicago White Sox. Yet American League players all have a high rating of Sheely's value as a fielder.

"Sheely is a wonder," remarked Stuffy McInnis recently. "I doubt if the value of any player in the American League is less appreciated. He is a great target for the infielders to throw at. He gathers in with ease high throws that would go for two bases with the average first baseman."

"On a short bound he is an expert. Without a doubt he is the best first baseman I've ever seen when it comes to taking the ball one-handed when it is thrown directly in the runner's path."

"This I consider the hardest play in baseball. And Sheely is without a peer at it."

That's some praise from so great a fielder as McInnis, the man who in one season made only a single error at first base, and that a very questionable one.

While it isn't generally known, Sheely has not always been a first sacker. An injury forced the position on him. He began his career at second base. In touching a runner on an attempted steal, he suffered a broken ankle. It was badly set, and when the cast was taken off it was believed that Sheely's days as a player were over.

Sheely refused to give up and since he could hit the ball, a more stationary position was sought for him. He tried catching and did pretty well. An injury to the first baseman on his team caused him to be shifted to that position.

There he found himself. He was with Salt Lake of the Pacific Coast League at the time.

Despite his bad ankle, which slowed him up, the Chicago White Sox made a deal for him because he could hit and field. He has proved a most valuable man for the Sox.

Few players would have come back after the mistake the surgeons had made in setting the bad break he suffered. So when prone to criticize Sheely for his lack of speed, glance at the bad left ankle, and think of the courage required to overcome such a physical handicap.

MINOT TAKES FIRST GAME

Minot, July 25.—Superb pitching by Dennison coupled with good support and heavy hitting gave Minot the opening game of the Jamestown-Minot series in the state league yesterday. The game was called in the eighth inning on account of darkness. The score by innings:

Jamestown	100	000	00—1	3	5
Minot	122	011	40—11	14	2

Batters—Jamestown, Prodinski, Wingfield and Carlson. Minot, Dennison and Werner.

The Court of Last Appeal

You are the judge and the jury.
Your verdict is final. There can be no appeal—for this is the High Court of Public Opinion.

The wares of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

The manufacturer who advertises deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparison. He directs your attention to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

If he were not sure of his wares he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his business career. It would be business suicide.

You can depend on the man who advertises. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisements you find in this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

American Music Is in Process of Evolution

Sybil Vane of Covent Garden Has Great Faith in Our Melodic Future

What's it all about—the queer, weird noise America has lately labeled music? Sybil Vane, famous as the youngest operatic star in the British Empire, says eventually it is going to be real music, the very real-est any country has ever known.

"I have been watching the evolution of your music," the pretty Covent Garden prima donna confessed, "and I have been amazed. This is a wonderful country and the most wonderful thing in it is the music. 'The light sentimental ballad' like 'Love Tales' is perhaps the best example of what I mean. It is like a dainty caprice with all the mellow flow of a modern fox trot and it has a strain of the stately that is a reminiscence of other days.

"Do you know what I think—Yes, honestly? American music, the kind you are developing today, is going to be your most precious heritage to coming generations!"

World and His Wife Attend Singer's Debut at Sea

Mort Downey Has Unique Distinction on U. S. S. Leviathan

The first international debut of an operatic star took place recently when the Leviathan, biggest steamship in the world, made her maiden trip across the Atlantic.

The star who received the impressive introduction to his public was Mort Downey, young Irish tenor, who was discovered and presented by Paul Whiteman, famous orchestra leader.

The role of impresario is a new one for Whiteman, but his friends along Broadway who declare he "innovates" in his sleep were not in the least surprised at see.

that he disdained the ordinary way of launching a grand opera find, and chose, instead of the Metropolitan, the magnificent salon of the Leviathan where, during the voyage, notables from every nation gathered.

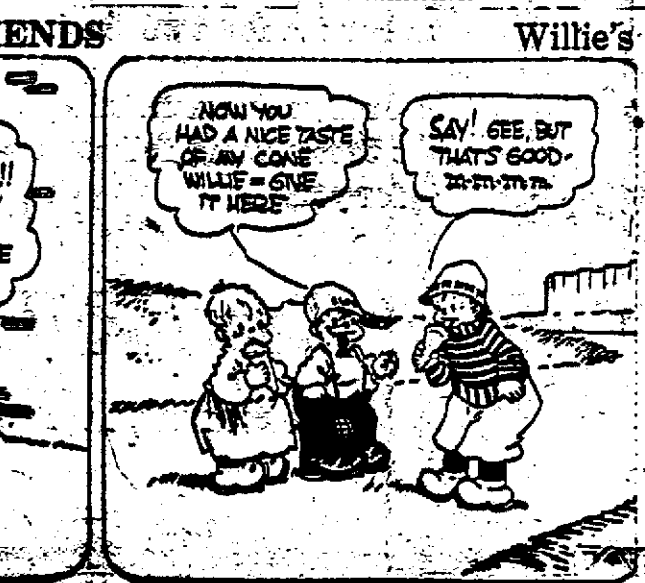

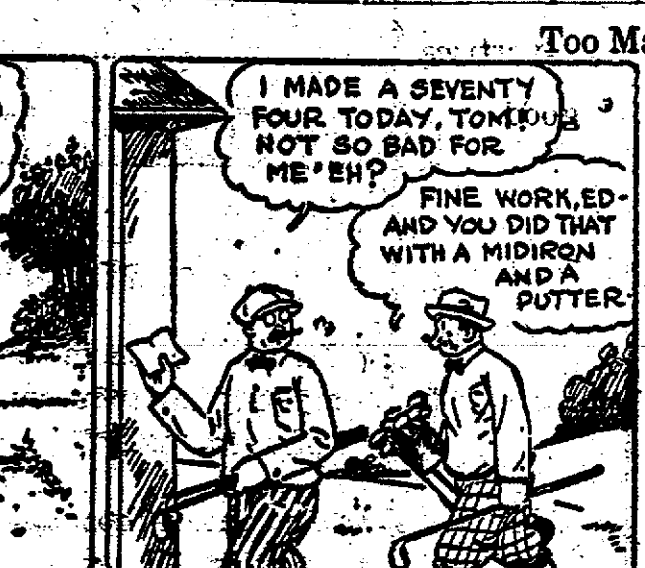

Whiteman's orchestra furnished the accompaniment for the youthful singer and "Wonderful One", a waltz song, composed by the leader himself and considered by publishers the biggest musical find of 1923, was what he sang.

"It was a greater thrill than I'd have gotten out of even the Metropolitan, though always before, that was the height of my ambition," Downey related friends after his opening night at sea.

CAPITALS IN BATTING BEE AT LOCAL PARK

Beat Valley City Team, 16 to 2, in Hard-Hitting Contest on Local Grounds

PLAYING AGAIN TODAY

LADIES DAY AGAIN
Ladies Day will be observed each Friday at the local ball park, the management announced today. Ladies will be admitted free to the Valley City-St. Mary's game at 6:15 p. m. Friday of this week.

Valley City began a six-game series with the locals last night.

The Bismarck batters enjoyed one of those days so sweet to the player whose eye is on the next publication of the hitting averages—for they slammed out 19 hits in the game with Valley City at the local ball park last night, all but one of the 10 players the locals had in the game hitting safely once or more times.

It was a home-coming for the local team, after a series in Valley City, and although the management had failed to advertise the series put under a new schedule more than a few hours in advance, the local players had a warm reception prepared for the visitors, and the fans that were there were with them on the committee.

It might not have been a bad game if Ramage, the visitors' short stop hadn't hurt a leg, which caused a shift in the line-up. Errors in the first inning put Wagner, who started pitching for Valley City, in hot water, and the locals followed this with hits. Cantin relieved him in the third but the locals garnered five hits before a man was put out and Manager Schanlaub of the visitors, regular first baseman, playing short in Ramage's place, went in to pitch Bismarck only got two runs off his weak curves, but then they were tired out by this time.

Joe Day started pitching for Bismarck and was going in good shape. Charley Boardman got the only hit off him in three innings. After Bismarck had piled up a big lead, Shanley called Al Bernier to the box and let Day go home and rest. It also gave Bernier a chance to try his shots.

Two years ago, as pitcher and outfielder, and as pitcher and outfielder, he was with the Mitchell club of the Dakota League but he's been shining in the field and at bat instead of the box this year.

Valley's two runs came in the sixth. Kennedy and Lauber hit safely and Schanlaub scored them with a two-base drive.

Starting the game for Bismarck, Newt Randall went out, second to first. Dougan hit safely and was forced by Shanley, short to second. Bernier walked. Shanley and Bernier executed a double steal and catcher Wallin, throwing to catch Shanley, put the ball in left-field, Shanley scoring. Reider hit safely and scored Bernier, took second when Valley fielders failed to get Zimmerman's slow roller, and Reider and Zimmerman scored when Kennedy fumbled Condon's grounder and then threw over first.

The slaughter came in the third. Bernier started the inning with a hit. Reider sacrificed and the Valley players bailed the play, he searched first. Zimmerman walked. Condon, Zart, Day, Dougan, Shanley, Reider and Zimmerman hit safely, with one out and a base on balls moved in. When the dust had rolled away Bismarck had 10 runs, and had made nine hits.

The two teams play again today. Throckmorton or Taylor have the call to pitch for Bismarck, while Charley Boardman may get in the box for the visitors. The game is called at 6:15 P. M.

ATTACK UMP'S AFTER GAME WITH YANKEES

Crowd at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Excited When Yankees Win Game

Chicago, July 25.—Great excitement prevailed at Shibe Park yesterday when the Yankees trimmed the Athletics 7 to 9. As the game ended a shouting mob of fans rushed over the field and assaulted Dick Nallie, umpire. City police hurried to his assistance and saved him from injury. The fans objected to his decision when Whitely Witt singled to left field in the seventh inning. Walker made an effort to nip the ball and argued eloquently when Nallie declared he had caught it on a short loop. During the game Babe Ruth knocked his 23rd homer and tied Cy Williams for the lead.

The Cincinnati Reds playing in Cincinnati beat the Cardinals 7 to 4, thereby starting on another raise after the league leading Giants who were idle. The only other game scheduled in the National League, Chicago vs. Pittsburgh, was called off because of wet grounds.

The Indians and Browns divided a double header in St. Louis, the Browns winning the first 3 to 1 and losing the second 3 to 2 in 13 innings.

In the first game, McManus made a home run after Williams had singled, deciding the issue. Brower scored the Cleveland score when he hit a homer in the seventh period. Tobin tied the score when he duplicated the hit in the Browns hat. In Chicago, Detroit took a double header 4 to 1 and 9 to 6. The White Sox were unable to hit the pellet in the first game. Heilmann scored his fourteenth homer of the season.

The Senators lacking hitting power in their game with the Red Sox in Boston lost 6 to 1.

Puzzling Plays

By Billy Evans

THE PLAY
What constitutes interference by the batsman when his bat is the weapon of interference? Must it be intentional to be penalized?

There is a runner on first. The batsman attempts to sacrifice the runner to second. His effort is a bunt down the thirdbase line. The catcher dashes out to make a play. As he is about to pick up the ball and make a play on the runner, the batsman so throws his bat that it hits the ball, making it impossible for the catcher to complete the play. The runner on first went to third and the batsman reached first.

When the batsman threw his bat he had his back to the play and probably had no intention of interfering. Should that fact receive any consideration?

What is the proper ruling?

THE INTERPRETATION

The batsman should be declared out for interference.

When his bat came into contact with the ball, preventing the catcher from picking it up and making a play, he created an interference. No consideration can be given to the fact that he had his back to the play, and had no idea his bat would prevent a play by the catcher.

If serious consideration was given to the intent, the umpire would always be in trouble on an interference play. The player would invariably contend there was no intent to interfere.

The batsman should have been declared out, and the runner who went from first to third sent back to first, as no runners can advance on such an interference.

Kinks The Links

Player drives a long ball from the tee. Hard rains had rendered some of the fairways rather muddy as certain improvements had just been completed. A cow grazing on the course tramples on the ball and it becomes embedded in the hoof of the cow. For a time the ball couldn't be found, but was later discovered close by the cow which had shifted its grazing territory. Must the ball be played from where found or where it was apparent that it first came to rest, it being possible to follow the flight of the ball from the tee? If the ball has been rendered unfit for play because of the happening, must the player continue to use that ball or has he the right to drop a new one?

This rather unusual happening is governed by section 3 of rule 17, which states if a ball at rest be displaced by any agency outside the match, except wind, the player shall drop the ball as near as possible to where it lay without penalty. In this case the cow must be considered an outside agency. If the ball has been rendered unfit for play because the cow trampled on it, the player has a right to drop another ball.

Players find their balls resting in a hazard within a club length of each other. Has the player who is farther from the hole the right to have his opponent lift his ball before he plays his next shot?

When the balls lie within a club length of each other through the green or in a hazard, the ball lying nearer to the hole may, at the option of either the player or the opponent, be lifted until the other ball is played, and shall then be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay.

Workmen making some repairs on the fairway have removed their coats which are lying on the ground near the section under repair. Player drives the ball from the tee and it comes to rest in the pocket of one of the workmen's coat. One player contended that the ball must be driven from the pocket, the location of it being apparent, unless the other player wanted to lift the ball and suffer a stroke penalty. The player who had driven the ball from the tee insisted that he had a right to lift the ball and drop it without penalty. Who is right?

The player had a perfect right to lift the ball from the pocket of the coat and drop it without penalty. The rule covering this phase of play says: "A ball lying on or touching clothes on ground under repair may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole."

SHEERLY RANKS HIGH AMONG FIRST SACKERS

Chicago White Sox Man One of Best of Fielding First Basemen

By NEA Service.
Chicago, July 25.—Who is the best fielding first baseman in the majors? George Sisler would no doubt be an almost unanimous reply to such a question. Others might select Stuffy McInnis of the Boston Braves. Some no doubt would favor Charley Grimm of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Probably very few would pick Earl Sheely of the Chicago White Sox. Yet American League players all have a high rating of Sheely's value as a fielder.

"Sheely is a wonder," remarked Stuffy McInnis recently. "I doubt if the value of any player in the American League is less appreciated. Sheely is a great target for the infielders throw at. He gathers in with ease high throws that would go for two bases with the average first sacker."

"On a short bound he is an expert. Without a doubt he is the best first baseman I've ever seen when it comes to taking the ball one-handed when it is thrown directly in the runner's path."

"This I consider the hardest play in baseball, and Sheely is without a peer at it," some praise from so great a fielder as McInnis, the man who in one season made only a single error at first base, and that a very questionable one.

While it isn't generally known, Sheely has not always been a first sacker. An injury forced the position on him. He began his career as a second baseman. In touching a runner on an attempted steal, he suffered a broken ankle. It was badly set, and when the cast was taken off it was believed that Sheely's days as a player were over.

Sheely refused to give up and since he could hit the ball, a more stationary position was sought for him. He tried catching and did pretty well. An injury to the first baseman on his team caused him to be shifted to that position.

There he found himself. He was with Salt Lake of the Pacific Coast League at the time.

Despite his bad ankle, which slowed him up, the Chicago White Sox made a deal for him because he could hit and field. He has proved a most valuable man for the Sox.

Few players would have come back after the mistake the surgeons had made in setting the bad break he suffered. So when prone to criticize Sheely for his lack of speed, glance at the bad left ankle, and think of the courage required to overcome such a physical handicap.

The Court of Last Appeal

You are the judge and the jury.

Your verdict is final. There can be no appeal—for this is the High Court of Public Opinion.

The wares of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

The manufacturer who advertises deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparison. He directs your attention to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

If he were not sure of his wares he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his business career. It would be business suicide.

You can depend on the man who advertises. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisements you find in this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

FORMER N. D. MAN OUSTED AT COLLEGE

Dr. George Wilson Loses
Place as Head of Oklahoma Institution

Muskogee, July 25.—Removal of George Wilson, stern center of Oklahoma politics, from the presidency of Oklahoma A. and M. College will be effected at a meeting of the state board of agriculture college for Friday, according to announcement last night by John A. Whitehurst, president of the board.

The way for the ousting of Wilson was paved today when Governor J. C. Walton removed two Farmer-Labor reconstruction league members of the board and replaced them with appointees pledged to vote for Wilson's discharge.

Muskogee, July 25.—Removal of George Wilson from the presidency of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College became assured yesterday when Gov. J. C. Walton issued an executive order ousting Peter Coyne and H. M. Stilwell as members of the state board of agriculture.

The governor made this plain in a signed statement which accompanied the order, declaring that his action was taken "not only for the safety and protection of the school, but for the good of a great cause, the farmer-labor movement."

Gov. Walton appointed Coyne and Stilwell to the board soon after he took office, as a means, it was agreed in administration circles, toward placing Wilson, who had supported him in the campaign, at the head of the college. The board of agriculture is the governing board of the school and it was through the votes of Coyne and Stilwell that Wilson received the position.

His election aroused the protests of organizations, individuals and students throughout the state, many of whom pointed out that he has no college degree. The American Legion particularly was active in opposing Wilson.

Wilson is a former Nonpartisan League worker and was active in organizing the Farmer-Labor reconstruction league, which supported the governor in the election last fall. He declined to comment today when notified of the governor's action.
